MP'S OFFICE DESTROYED

A blaze that ripped through Mid Kent and Faversham MP Hugh Robertson's Lenham office in the early hours last Thursday destroyed crucial computer records and case files. Fire officers believe the flames took hold in the ironmonger's below the Conservative MP's office. Mr Robertson, who is the coalition Government's sports minister, said: "The fire completely destroyed our offices. The heat was so intense it destroyed not only all the files and paperwork but also the computers and machinery."

"Some of the computer records are backed up but, realistically, we have to start all over again."

■ BY ED HILL

A SEX offender who fled to Africa to escape justice has been sentenced to 12 years behind bars.

Ian Duncan McLeod-McLean, 48, was due to stand trial for offences against three Maidstone girls in 2008.

But just before he was due to make a plea relating to charges of sex abuse, McLeod-McLean, of Canterbury Road, Ashford, fled to Sierra Leone where he spent two years living rough as an illegal immigrant. While in Africa he suffered a serious bout of malaria and was hospitalised. It was discovered by the Sierra Leone authorities he was in the country illegally and British embassy staff told them he was wanted for a string of crimes.

He was deported and arrested at Heathrow airport on his return to the UK.

At a hearing last month, McLeod-McLean pleaded guilty to 20 counts of sexual abuse and not guilty to three others.

At his sentencing on Friday at Maidstone Crown Court, the hearing was told the former driving instructor, employed by the Army, began the abuse in 1995. It then escalated to a series of serious offences in 2006-07.

His partner had also become aware he was viewing child pornography on the internet and found images of his abuse on a memory card.

Teen dies after cold spreads to brain infection

■ BY JOE BILL

TRIBUTES have poured in for a teenager who died of a brain infection just two days after catching a cold.

Danielle Brooker, 18, from Barming, complained of feeling unwell and having a headache before her condition deteriorated.

She died on October 22, at Kings College Hospital in London having been transferred there from Maidstone.

Medics said that it was 'extremely rare' for a virus like a common cold to become so complicated that it spreads to the brain and leads to death.

A tributes group on social networking site Facebook was created almost instantly, and more than 1,200 people have joined to leave their messages of condolence.

On the site, Sharon Pemberton said: "R.I.P gal, it is a shame to see such a young, pretty person go again, why is it that god always has to take the good people?"

Donna Kernick said: "Haven't written to you on here yet - it seems silly, like you're going to walk through the door any minute."

"I don't want to write on here, I want to chat at my back door over one of your roll-ups."

Danielle, who was studying to become a beauty therapist, had registered as an organ donor, donating her lungs, liver and kidneys.

Lilly McPhee said: "Just out of respect I felt I should post this."

"I didn't know you, but from what I've seen, you were a truly remarkable girl."

"You are being read about worldwide and you've saved three people's lives, that is an incredible achievement! You have inspired many people to become organ donors."

The former Astor of Hever pupil leaves her brother Daniel, 22, and mother Sharon Brooker.

On the site, Daniel said: "Danielle, we have grown up together and I feel the luckiest man alive to have known you. I am still so numb and cannot believe this is real."

"I never realised how much I loved you until you were gone!"

"It is eating at me knowing I cannot find the words to express how I feel. I am so glad I was there before you went off to help save three other people's lives. Night, night sis, sweet dreams."

Friends of the teenager have organised a disco at Babylon nightclub in King Street, Maidstone, to help pay for her funeral, which will be held at St Michael's Church in Tonbridge Road, Maidstone, on Monday, November 8.

Salon team's quiz and auction boost charity

A HAIR and beauty team raised over £800 for the Breakthrough Breast Cancer charity.

The Saks staff, based in Kings Hill, staged a bumper quiz at the Village Hotel in Maidstone as well as auctioning off pampering goodies.

Ten teams, including salon members, family, friends and clients, battled it out in the quiz while the auction lots included a pair of limited edition pink GHD straighteners, designed for Breakthrough Breast Cancer, and a Saks Sensory Heaven massage and facial treatment.

The Saks team sold homemade pink cakes during the evening, which they've also been selling at the salon every Saturday.

Workshop helps firms to recover their debts

MAIDSTONE law firm Furley Page are offering businesses tips on how to recover debts owed to them.

The workshop on debt recovery and credit control, created in association with Kent Invicta Chamber of Commerce, is at the Marriott Tudor Park Hotel and Country Club, Maidstone on November 18.

Martin Kingman, who heads the debt recovery and insolvency team, said: "The workshop is ideal for sales managers, credit controllers, financial directors and owner-managers who have a direct involvement in managing the firm's cash flow."

Academy students raise cash for charity

STAFF and students at two Maidstone academies have raised almost £850 for cancer charities in the past two months.

The New Line Learning and Cornwallis academies held numerous events to raise the cash.

NLL students took part in the world's largest coffee morning, collecting £432 for Macmillan Cancer Support.

Cornwallis sixthformers held a Pink Day in October, raising £402 for the Breast Cancer Campaign.

Pupils who wanted to come to school in pink fancy dress were asked to make a donation while pink cakes and sweets were also sold.

Pandora's box a golden giveaway

ALL that glitters could well be gold this week as a designer jewellery store opens in Maidstone with a £10,000 giveaway.

Pandora, which will open on Saturday in Fremlin Walk, will offer customers the red carpet treatment as well as the chance to bag some glittering goodies.

Every customer who makes a purchase at the store will be given the opportunity to dip their hands into Pandora's mystery box and pick out a free item.

The box will contain sparkling pieces worth thousands of pounds from the shop's collection, just waiting to be picked.

Store manager Jennifer Long said: "This is an amazing opportunity for lucky customers to win some wonderful jewellery, including the 18

carat LovePods rings as well as our famous bracelets and charms, so we'd urge everyone to hurry down to the store before our treasure runs out!"

The VIP treatment continues at 12.30pm on Saturday, when the Mayor of Maidstone, Councillor Eric Hotson, will arrive to open the store.

Maidstone resident and jewellery fan, Ashley Vane, said: "I can't wait. I could do with some new earrings. And who knows, I might even get two pairs, if I am lucky."

Pandora is a Danish jewellery brand renowned for its signature charm bracelet. It has stores in 45 different countries.

Centre manager Lloyd Wright said: "We are thrilled to have Pandora open at Fremlin Walk and looking forward to the delighted faces of customers who strike gold!"

MP's constituency base destroyed by huge fire

■ BY JOE BILL

A DEVASTATING fire at the offices of Mid Kent and Faversham MP Hugh Robertson, which destroyed important constituency documents, means he must "start from scratch."

The late-night blaze wrecked the building and melted computers, burned paperwork and destroyed important files.

It is believed the fire started in the ironmonger's shop below the MP's office in Faversham Road, Lenham, at 3.45am on Thursday, October 28.

The Conservative sports minister said: "The fire on Thursday morning completely destroyed our offices. The heat was so intense that it destroyed not only all the files and paperwork but also the computers and machinery."

"Some of the computer records are backed up but, realistically, we have to start over again."

Six teams of firefighters from Maidstone, Sittingbourne and Faversham tackled the flames and had to evacuate a number of residents from neighbouring houses as the inferno threatened to spread.

Fire crews also had to remove a number of gas bottles from a storeroom behind the shop.

Police arrived to cordon off the street at both ends and it remained closed into the following day as firefighters finally put out the fire at the constituency headquarters.

Mr Robertson added: "All the letters and correspondence for last week and this week has been lost and there will be disruption whilst we find new offices and get started again. We will do this as fast as possible but, in the meantime, it would help enormously if constituents could only contact us if it is a real emergency."

Firefighters and police were still in the village at noon on the Friday as children on half term and residents watched the clear-up operation.

A neighbour said: "I heard sirens last night but I didn't expect to find what I did this morning. You never expect it to be that bad."

The cause of the blaze is still being investigated by the Kent Fire and Rescue Service.

£16m cuts to fire service 'will cost lives'

A £16 MILLION savings plan at Kent Fire and Rescue Service may result in more lives being lost, union chiefs have warned.

Proposals by the service's governing body include closing stations and cutting admin posts, to tackle annual spending cuts of £4 million for four years.

Firefighters will also stop responding to every automatic fire alarm (AFA) from 2012, unless somebody calls to report a blaze or the property is high risk.

The authority has defended the plan, stating that in the past seven years crews attended 42,848 calls to AFAs, of which only 613 were actual fires.

But the Fire Brigade Union says the proposed cut is dangerous and that there needs to be improvements to commercial building standards before making the decision.

Union representative Jim Parrott also criticised plans to reduce the number of stations, claiming it could increase response time.

"What Kent has said in this report is their community fire safety schemes are driving down fire, which allows them to cut response standards," he said, "but there is no direct evidence to prove this."

But Cllr Keith Ferrin, chairman of Kent and Medway Fire and Rescue Authority's policy and performance committee, said the public should not be worried about any changes.

"The fact is Kent Fire never stands still and never has done," he said. "Its job is to respond to constantly-changing risks and deliver the best service, at the best price, for local taxpayers."

"We must help the public understand that their safety does not depend on a fire station on every corner."

Judge praises abuse victims

Sentencing McLeod-McLean, Judge John Statman said: "The level of sexual degradation was considerable. You suffered sexual abuse yourself as a child. Your offences mirror that and you were aware of the impact your actions would have on your victims."

McLeod-McLean, whose youngest victim was nine years old, is expected to serve six years in jail.

He will be on the sex offenders' register for life, and was issued with a Sexual Prevention Order meaning he cannot work with children or use the internet except for work, or possess a video camera.

Detective Chief Inspector Simon Wilson, from Maidstone police, said: "Nothing will bring back the innocence this man stole from these girls."

"His campaign of abuse and terror stretched over more than 10 years. The mental scars will endure for the rest of his victims' lives."

"He compounded his crimes by fleeing the country before he could stand trial, leaving the victims wondering if they would ever find justice."

Judge Statman praised McLeod-McLean's victims, who were in court, for their bravery in going to the police and hoped the sentence would give them some form of closure.

New hospital ready ahead of schedule

THOUSANDS of patients will get to experience the new Pembury Hospital months ahead of schedule.

Approval has been given by the Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells NHS Trust for the move to start in January, rather than the scheduled September 2011 start date.

This means that Pembury's outpatient clinics and specialist services, including the MRI scanning team, will move in to the new building in two months time.

A Trust spokesman added: "The plans mean patients will be able to visit their clinics in the new hospital setting earlier than planned and will not have to navigate their way to old buildings at the top site during demolition works. They will also be able to experience the new facilities the hospital has to offer."

The early transfer from the old hospital will also bring forward plans for its demolition.

Landscaping of the grounds will follow to provide improvements to parking for visitors and staff.

Jonathan Abbott, the new hospital's project director for Laing O'Rourke, said: "We are honoured to be working with the Trust to deliver the new Pembury Hospital."

"I'm hugely proud of our team for the dedication and professionalism shown throughout the construction process so far. We look forward to continuing our work and completing the transformation of the facilities."

The extra services moving from the old Pembury site to the new hospital in January 2011 include general outpatients, ophthalmology and rheumatology, nuclear medicine, the MRI scanner, phlebotomy, pharmacy and the pain service.

The Pembury move is still at the centre of much controversy as Maidstone residents and councillors fight to keep maternity services in the county town.

MP Helen Grant and local parents are campaigning to keep the full birthing facility at Maidstone Hospital, despite NHS bosses looking to move them to Pembury.

A decision is due to be made within the next two months.

Court blows the whistle on ref who claimed disability benefits

A REFEREE has been given a red card by the courts after claiming incapacity cash despite taking charge of 38 football matches.

Christopher Hodgson, 49, of Norfolk Road, Maidstone, was caught refereeing on camera three times while receiving money from the Government.

Hodgson, who wore his Kent FA tracksuit top into Maidstone Magistrates Court, was ordered to pay back the £10,255 he had received.

The father of three has been diagnosed with osteoporosis and osteoarthritis, backed up in court by a doctor's note, but continued to earn money through the Maidstone District Football League.

Fiona Green, representing, explained to magistrates that although Hodgson had some days he was "unable to walk" he also has days where he can do a lot more.

Hodgson, who also has an adopted 17-year-old daughter, had claimed he was incapable of work and "needed personal care" as well as someone to make meals for him.

But in accordance with doctors advice on the degenerative illness, Hodgson said he wanted to "keep as fit as possible" to avoid "ending up in a wheelchair".

The part time referee was forced to retire from his previous job as a civilian tyre fitter for the army because of his condition.

Mrs Green added that Hodgson could cope occasionally with extra recreation and did not deliberately flout the law. She also said the defendant had pleaded guilty at the earliest possible moment in the court process and had never been in trouble with the law before.

During the 2006-07 season, Hodgson refereed 10 games, the following year he took charge of 20 and in the latest season he was in the centre circle for eight matches.

Although Hodgson has already started paying back the money, magistrates said that the three year period in which the defendant kept earning was an "aggravating factor in their decision".

Hodgson received a three month curfew order forcing him to stay at home between 7am to 7pm. He will also pay £100 in costs and continue to pay back the benefits he gained.

Lord Freud, minister for welfare reform, said: "Benefit thieves are costing the taxpayer almost £1 billion per year. This money is intended to help those in need, not line the pockets of criminals.

"We will continue to tackle this problem at the frontline but also at the root by reforming the benefits system to make it less open to abuse."

Free drinks if you Switch to café

YOUNGSTERS will be able to enjoy free milkshakes this weekend as part of a promotion for a volunteer-run youth café.

Unpaid workers from Switch Youth Café in the High Street will be heading to the Mall Shopping Centre on Saturday to hand out free milkshake vouchers for young people aged 11-21, as part of an event promoting how lottery funding has benefitted neighbourhoods.

Café manager, Roy Laming, said: "The last time we ran a promotion like this the venue was packed so I'm hoping this one will be just as successful."

The café, which is open to young people, has already seen more than 1,000 visitors pass through its doors since it started trading in the summer.

Facilities include a café selling a range of drinks and snacks, free wireless Internet, flat screen TV, free magazines, iPod docking station and chill out area.

It operates term-time Tuesday to Friday from 3.30pm to 5.30pm and on Saturdays noon to 4pm. During school holidays the venue is open Tuesday to Saturday noon to 4pm. See www.switchcafe.co.uk.

NIGHTCLUB HAS THE X FACTOR

GIRL band Belle Amie are the latest act to exit the X Factor competition, but that also means they will be next to perform at Maidstone's Liquid nightclub.

The four ladies, who were under the guidance of Simon Cowell in the Groups category, were voted out after a sing off with controversial performer Katie Waissel.

Promoter Steve Harris, said: "Now the big acts are starting to come, we are getting very excited about some big performances in Maidstone.

"The X Factor is well and truly under way and getting more and more engrossing each week, we are so happy to be part of the X Factor story every Friday night."

The group lost out after singing I'll Stand by You by The Pretenders. Now let's see if the Maidstone X Factor fans stand by them this Friday night.

Fruit festival enjoys bite of success

THE first ever Festival of British Fruit proved a huge hit with stallholders and visitors as produce flew off the shelves last week.

Apples, pears, strawberries, raspberries, cobnuts, fruit juices, wines and ciders were all available to taste and buy at the East Malling Research conference centre.

The festival featured produce that had earlier in the week taken centre stage at the trade-only National Fruit Show at the Kent Showground in Detling.

The show also acts as a nationwide competition for the fruit industry and saw Staplehurst fruit growers Nigel and Annette Bardsley take home a basket full of awards for their Bramleys, Cox's, Rubens, Russets, Braeburns and Conference pears.

National Fruit Show chairman, Sarah Calcutt, said the festival had been a great success and praised the hard work of organisers John Guest and Robert Oliver.

She said: "Normally we take the fruit to become part of an existing attraction.

"This year we organised a stand-alone event which people had to make a particular effort to attend, and we were really pleased with how successful it was.

"We will certainly be repeating it next year. There has already been a great deal of discussion on a suitable venue and the potential of including a wider range of products related to our industry"

Political pooches go paw to paw

A SECOND member of the Grant household will be hoping for a decisive Conservative victory.

Maidstone and Weald MP Helen Grant has entered her dog into the Westminster Dog of the Year Competition for 2010.

Charlie, the five year old Border, enters the contest run by animal charity Dogs Trust and the Kennel Club, in its 18th year.

Proud owner Helen said: "Charlie is an avid campaigner with many great achievements to bark about."

"He protested against proposals to close Maidstone's maternity services and loyally joined my predecessor Ann Widdecombe and I on the campaign trail in all weathers."

"It's about time all his good deeds were rewarded by winning the Westminster Dog of the Year crown."

The competition is open to all parliamentary pooches, regardless of breed or political persuasion.

With not a spin doctor or focus group in sight, the Westminster Dog of the Year competition provides an opportunity for MPs to promote responsible dog ownership.

Judges include Clarissa Baldwin (CEO Dogs Trust) and Caroline Kisko (Secretary, the Kennel Club) and results are expected later this week.

Westminster correspondents' dogs have also been invited to compete.

Annie's walking in the air for Kent Hospice

■ BY JOE BILL

STANDING on the wings of a plane as it flies through the sky sounds more like something out of James Bond tale than a weekend jaunt.

But try telling that to adventure addict Annie Baker, 52, who took a wing walk from Headcorn airfield to raise money for Maidstone charity, The Heart of Kent Hospice.

The high flying escapade kick-started Annie's mission to raise £30,000 for the charity as she takes on some spine-tingling challenges in the next few months.

She said: "I felt I was reaching for the sky, and that's exactly how I feel about the fundraising challenge."

"I felt like a bird up there all alone soaring through the air. It was awesome."

However, the wing walk was not originally Annie's idea. It was the brainchild of Cheryl Acton, 34, from Maidstone, who was diagnosed with incurable melanoma in February this year.

Cheryl, a patient at the hospice, dreamed of taking part in the fundraising challenge herself, but unfortunately it was not possible to find an appropriate insurer.

She said: "All staff at the hospice have been so supportive and friendly that I would love to be supportive in return."

"At home I felt very isolated, but coming to the hospice has given me an opportunity to meet and talk to others in a similar situation."

Cheryl was diagnosed with the disease shortly after getting married to Hamit, who she met while working in Turkey.

But she has always been adventurous, performing skydives, bungee jumps and driving fast boats.

It is this lust for life that is helping Cheryl focus on staying as fit and well as possible during chemotherapy and radiotherapy.

It is now Annie who takes up the mantle and she is no stranger to dare-devil exploits herself.

Annie, from Horton Kirby, has already completed a 200 foot abseil as well as trekking jungles in Thailand to inspire fundraising for the hospice. But the wing walk was one to really take your breath away.

WING WALKER: Annie and Cheryl are trying to raise £30,000 for The Heart of Kent Hospice through challenges

Annie said: "I only wish it was possible for Cheryl to experience the unique exhilaration of the wing walk."

"I need to raise £30,000 to support the hospice which provides such valuable services as the popular 'Drop-In' centre."

"Financial security could help to make this a permanent feature at the hospice, as well as provide training for carers."

And Annie and Cheryl have supporters in high places with Chatham and Aylesford MP, Tracey Crouch along with Helen Grant, MP for Maidstone, lending their support.

Helen said: "They are to be commended for developing a programme like this at a time of austerity. Their go-getter attitude is an inspiration."

If you would like to help Annie achieve her goal then contributions can be made to <http://www.justgiving.com/Anniesmission>.

QUESTION & ANSWER

IVY PAIGE

Q What is your official job title? Tell us a little about your job?

A I am singer and songwriter and have been called a "Cabaret Rockstar."

I combine my love of burlesque and cabaret with my passion for singing and songwriting to create what I call Rock 'n' Roll Cabaret.

I have spent the last four years propelling myself to the top of the international burlesque scene, and have performed all over the world with my repertoire of Ivy Paige shows and music. I write, direct and creatively design all the shows.

I also collaborate with Pete Saunders from Dexy's Midnight Runners when writing the music and my band on my forthcoming EP also plays for Kylie, Cheryl Cole and Duffy.

Q How did you first become involved in burlesque dancing?

A With my love of all things sparkly and feathery, I was born to be a showgirl and with my natural ability to tantalise people, it was inevitable I would end up on a stage. I love burlesque, which is clearly evident from the outfits I wear to accompany the music I write, and in keeping with that, I always include burlesque dancers in my shows.

Q Did you always want to do this from a young age or was it a strange journey there?

A I always knew that I would be a performer, but my journey to being a recording artist has taken some strange twists and turns. I had no idea that my love of burlesque and cabaret would open so many doors for me.

This is an exciting time for me, as I am about to launch my album Inside The Music Box.

Q Do you have any other passions and hobbies? What are they and why?

A I love to collect vintage clothes and spend my spare time hunting them out. I have some amazing 1940s vintage handbags. I also love to spend time with my chihuahua Barnum.

Q Where would you like to be in five years time (both your business and yourself)?

A I am looking forward to working on my second album, performing at bigger and better venues and continuing to perform to my growing fan base.

Q If you could have any other job in the world what would it be and why?

A I would like to own Tiffany's so I could be surrounded by diamonds. But apart from that I feel so lucky that I am able to do what I love and adore.

Q What is your claim to fame?

A I was the supporting artiste to John Waters (Creator of Hairspray), on his UK tour as well as The Puppini Sisters. I have performed in front of A List Hollywood legend, the late Dennis Hopper, and Tony Robinson, aka Baldrick and presenter of Channel 4's The Time Team, has told me that he is a fan.

Q What do you consider your greatest achievement as far as your job is concerned?

A Writing and launching my first single The Queen of Hearts, which is timed for release on February 14, 2011, Valentine's Day. You can hear clips of it now on my website.

Q What is the worst thing about your job?

A The hours can be unsociable but I'm a night owl so it suits me.

Q Do you have a favourite moment from your years in the business?

A Two moments stand out. The first was performing at The Hammersmith Apollo and having giant screens project me around the auditorium. The second was performing in Kent as this is my home county.

Q And a final plug...

A My single, the burlesque-inspired pop song The Queen of Hearts will be on sale from 14th February 2011. A list of upcoming shows is available on my website www.ivypaige.co.uk

Children to run rings around Leeds Castle

THE primary schools cross country leagues will finish in style today (Wednesday) as the last race takes place at the scenic Leeds Castle.

Maidstone and Ashford school pupils will take part in four different events, lapping the historic castle's features.

The magnificent grounds will host the event for the first time and will include courses on the cedar lawn passing the Barbican and sweeping up towards the castle entrance.

And if that is not enough for the youngsters, the long course will then take them across the causeway, along which they can look out for the famous black swans then past the Maiden's Tower.

Pupils from schools within the Mid Kent and Ashford Partnership will be taking part.

Primary Link Teacher Miss Dickson is excited about the forthcoming event.

She said: "The pupils have already entered races this year and have been putting in the laps back at school in preparation for the big day."

The youngsters will also make their way across the green of hole number five of the Leeds Castle golf course, but fortunately they won't have to dodge any golf balls as the course will shut for the race.

For more details call the partnership on 01622 858217 or visit their website www.mkapartnership.co.uk.

Rural robbers target crops and machinery

■ BY JOE BILL

FARMERS are gearing up for a long winter but this year they are not just battling the elements.

Robbers have been stealing both crops and machinery, leaving Maidstone farmers thousands of pounds out of pocket. These thieves are now being targeted by police and farmers using extra defences in the dark.

Following a spate of hay thefts in early autumn, officers have been visiting rural areas offering help to protect farms from criminals.

A number of forensic solution kits have been given to farmers to mark up tractors and other machinery. The solution, which is invisible to the naked eye, is detectable under ultra violet light, making it easy for police to identify stolen items. It can then be linked back to a particular crime scene.

John Jordan, the director of the Kent Life farm in Maidstone, was one of those farmers visited. He said: "They came out to us and were very helpful. It is really important to take care because some machinery is extremely expensive."

"A good tractor can cost up to £100,000 although we don't have any here. Farmers are always worried about people who may try to steal large machinery.

TARGETED BY THIEVES: John Jordan of Kent Life says the farm had two bales of hay stolen during the summer

"There is a market for stealing and selling parts. We have heard of tractor parts being transferred to third world countries."

Mr Jordan, who has been in charge of Kent Life farm for five years, has put in new gates to make it difficult for people to drive onto the land, while other farmers in the area have even put up CCTV around their premises.

Fortunately the Kent Life site hasn't experienced any more thefts since two large and expensive hay bales were stolen in August.

Police have created a check list for rural communities to guard against intruders.

These included fitting removable cattle grids and locking posts to obstruct large openings, as well as keeping ditches dug and maintaining hedges and fencing.

PC Marc Pennicott, rural partnership officer, said: "We are aware that due to the high temperatures and low rainfall, farmers have only been able to get one crop of hay a year, instead of the usual two. As a result, hay has become a commodity and therefore attractive to the criminal fraternity."

"Most farms are easy to get to, making total security impossible, but a lot can still be done to reduce the risks."

"In addition, farmers in Lenham and Headcorn can now sign up to the Midsafe Scheme, giving them a two-way radio which will put them in instant contact with Maidstone town centre CCTV unit should they witness any suspicious behaviour."

"Should anyone wish to join the Midsafe scheme, they can do so by contacting Maidstone Town Centre Management on 01622 678777 who will set up a site visit."

BUSINESS WEEK Live

Conference Programme

Lord Michael Howard

Opening Address: 9.00 – 9.20

Lord Michael Howard, Baron Howard of Lympne
Paul Stannard, MD, ARCHANT KOS MEDIA

Session 1. 9.30 – 10.00

Winning business from the public sector TODAY Panel discussion

In the wake of the comprehensive spending review, many businesses will have to review the way in which they trade with the public sector. Public sector procurement covers everything from multi-billion pound orders for aircraft carriers down to contracts to clean the windows of local schools or supply flowers to the town hall. Every government department, local authority, LEA and health trust has its procurement officers and each has its own buying requirements.

Panel members: Tim Allen, Group Managing Director, MJ Allen
Martin Wragg, Defence Suppliers Service, MOD
Jeff Alexander, Head of External Affairs, South East Region, EEF

Session 2. 10.15 – 10.45

Readying investment... how to catch your dragon

Many people have some great ideas; however, translating them into a tangible prospect for business and investors is not always so easy. Come along and hear how to attract and secure equity investment into your business... the do's and don'ts, rights and wrongs... and how to spectacularly cock it up.

Speakers: Phil Beavan, Portfolio Director, Innovation & Growth Team
Elizabeth Dolding, Partner, Warners Solicitors

Session 3. 11.00 – 11.30

Digital Revolution: What's in it for business?

Apps, stats, video, mobile technology, the web – what does it all mean for business? How can we be a part of the digital revolution and what are the implications for businesses. Come and hear from a leading expert, who has over 10 years of experience in this area, as well as working for leading companies such as Lycos Europe.

Speaker: Johnnie Jensen, Success Engineer, Tmandi

Session 4. 11.45 – 12.15

Tweet, greet and network... is social media like Twitter, Facebook and LinkedIn worth the investment?

Despite the tremendous growth of business presences on social media sites, such as Facebook, LinkedIn Twitter etc, there are still many misconceptions about how best to use it. Come and hear from an expert, with many years of experience in this area and dispel some of the myths. Get advice about spending time up front doing analysis, research, goal setting and how having a strategy will make a social media plan easy to execute.

Speaker: Dan Maudhub, Managing Director, Wonderful Creative Agency

Session 5. 1.00 – 1.30

Win the war for talent – getting the best staff

Despite the prospect of job cuts and redundancies, many sectors are struggling with a real shortage of skilled staff. With the green shoots of economic recovery starting to appear, businesses will have to work harder than ever to retain talent, and understand the best way to recruit such staff initially. Come and hear from a leading HR expert, who will offer businesses tips and hints on how to achieve this.

Speaker: Simon Brown, HR Transformation Deployment Director, Coca Cola Company

Session 6. 1.45 – 2.15

Manage and inspire... it doesn't have to be a secret

Books and courses are not a panacea to good management, nor do they guarantee that people will be able to put the theory into practice. Come and hear from a motivational speaker, who has over 20 years experience in operational management, sales, change management, training & coaching, personal and organizational development.

Session 8. 3.15 – 3.45

The Big Debate – what will be the role of business in the Big Society?

David Cameron launched the 'Big Society' to empower communities and said that groups should be able to run post offices, libraries, transport services and shape housing projects. What are the implications of this for businesses and how can they be involved? Come and join a panel session with leading experts from business and social enterprise to hear what they think the future landscape may look like.

Speakers' Corner

SMART marketing and funding can turn a good idea into a profitable business, says an industry expert.

Phil Beavan, portfolio director for the Innovation and Growth Team, said too much focus is often put on a product without enough thought about how to bring in investment.

The straight-talking business guru will address Business Week Live delegates on 'Investment ready – how to catch your dragon'.

"You have to make sure the product is financially ready, that there will be high growth and a good exit route," he said.

"People have to make sure they are investment ready. There have been real horror stories where people have got a great product, but spend so much time focusing on that that they get nowhere and have lost a lot of money."

Mr Beavan said since he started with the Government-funded Kent and Medway Innovation and Growth Team in March, he has raised just over £500,000 in investment for businesses.

BUZZ words are out and straight-talking in says motivational speaker Neil Annis.

The Kent-based business expert will let Business Week Live delegates in on 'The Secret of being an Inspirational Manager'.

"I'm going to talk to people about how to get the best from themselves and how to adapt as a manager to keep staff motivated," he said.

"This is not about buzz words and hype – I really don't like that – this is about tips and advice that can be easily translated in any organisation."

"People need to be able to implement knowledge, skills and ideas into the workplace to run a successful business."

FACEBOOK, Twitter and other social networking websites have levelled the playing field between large and small businesses, says digital marketing specialist Jonnie Jensen.

Mr Jensen's Tmandi firm works with other companies to help them improve their internet search ranking and teach them how to make the best use of modern technology – a must in business today he says.

He will talk about 'The Digital Revolution' at Business Week Live: "The digital revolution has enabled businesses of all sizes to compete against one another. In the earlier days of the internet it was all about who had the most money to spend. A classic example would be companies from the insurance sector buying the most expensive keywords so customers would always come to their sites first on search engines like Google."

"But now the use of social media like blogs and forums has brought us right back to what was the original measure of a successful business, and that was representation."

"I'm keen to point out to small and medium-sized firms that there's never been a better opportunity for them to succeed. All it really takes is a creative mind and a commitment to reach the top."

PRIVATE sector firms should be pulling out all the stops to capitalise on the outsourcing of public sector contracts, says engineering boss Tim Allen.

Mr Allen – the group MD of the Ashford-based MJ Allen Group – is taking part in a panel discussion on the subject at Business Week Live:

"Although there will be lots of cutbacks, the public spend is still large and there's still work to get. And with more outsourcing away from public control, there's a great opportunity for private companies to make the best of it. "But there's no substitute for getting out there, knocking on people's doors and letting everyone know what you do."

Which makes Business Week Live a 'must' event, he said: "It's all about meeting as many new people as possible."

Why Businesses Should Attend

by STEVE LOADER
BUSINESS EDITOR
steve.loader@kosmedia.co.uk

Business Week Live makes its debut on Wednesday November 10 – exactly three weeks after the Government's Comprehensive Spending Review.

We all knew the CSR would be a bitter pill to swallow – we hope and pray it will do good even though it tastes foul at the moment.

I know many businesses had been holding off making their plans for 2011 because they wanted to hear what Chancellor Osborne had in mind.

Now they know, they need to move fast to get those crucial plans in place for what will be a pivotal year for them and the country.

And I'm happy that Business Week Live can deliver solid foundations upon which to build or re-build rather than an exercise in tracing pretty patterns.

Instead of token celebrity speakers which, as a scribe I would welcome for the anecdotes and column inches they deliver, there is a roster of experienced industry experts discussing issues facing us all today at Business Week Live who can send delegates away with more than a few top tips that may rescue and re-energise their business.

There are a few stands remaining so companies need to move fast to secure one.

Entry is free of course, but some proprietors and managers may question whether they can afford time to attend; I would ask 'Can you afford not to?' when there is so much free advice and expertise on offer. Plus £2,500+ worth of training access from one speaker alone.

An hour or two spent here is far more valuable if it saves your company, staff and jobs – and the latter means prosperity for us all.

Take out insurance for your business - get yourself registered at www.businessweeklive.co.uk.

BOWLED OVER: Tom Archer plays boccia

Sports pupils get new perspective

STUDENTS from Maidstone took part in a sports-focused careers day, experiencing what it is like to take part in exercise events as a disabled person.

Youngsters from MidKent College learned specialist techniques and the fitness requirements needed to perform at both Olympic and Paralympic Games.

The day, at the Maidstone Campus in Oakwood Park, had sport and exercise science pupils trying a range of games.

The group was also fortunate enough to meet to sports chiefs in charge of marketing the 2012 London Olympics.

Students were introduced to the ancient game of boccia by Kent's associate officer for the sport, John Chapman.

He said: "Boccia was the forerunner of modern day bowls, but the competitors must take part while sitting down."

"Anyone can play it, even those who are severely disabled."

The youngsters also tried paralympic volleyball, which is again mainly played from a seated position at a low net.

Pupils celebrate centenary of allegiance to charity

■ BY JOE BILL

WESTMINSTER Abbey was filled with Sutton Valence School students to celebrate the 100-year association between the school and the United Westminster Schools Foundation educational charity.

A congregation of more than 1,000 people, including a number of Old Suttonians and parents, attended the service conducted by Reverend Dr John Hall, Dean of Westminster.

The Guard of Honour and flag bearers were provided by the Sutton Valence School Combined Cadet Force while the school choir also sang to support the service at the historic London Abbey.

The readings were given by headmaster Bruce Grindlay and Nicholas Hewitt, head of School, and testimonies to the UWS were read by Old Suttonian Ian Kay and current upper sixth prefect, Christina Paca.

Mr Grindlay said: "Sutton Valence has much to be thankful for to United Westminster Schools."

"Although we are a forward-thinking school, we are also very mindful of our heritage and traditions, so it was entirely fitting for this celebration to be held in the setting of Westminster Abbey."

"The ceremony is something our students will undoubtedly remember for many years to come."

The Lord Mayor of Westminster, Councillor Judith Warner, and Helen Grant, MP for

MEMORABLE: The Dean of Westminster talks to Sutton Valence pupils at the ceremony in Westminster Abbey

Maidstone and the Weald, were among the VIP guests at the ceremony.

The United Westminster Schools Foundation is an educational charity which dates back to the 16th century, when Lady Dacre founded London's Emanuel School.

It encompasses not only Emanuel School in Wandsworth, but also Westminster City School.

Sutton Valence is among the country's oldest schools, having been founded by William Lambe in 1576. It became part of the United Westminster Schools Foundation in 1910, when the previous governing body, the Worshipful Company of Clothworkers, decided it wanted to switch its allegiance, and its money, to the newly-formed University of Leeds.

Violence cannot be allowed to continue

There has always been a problem in Tovil with both anti-social behaviour and crime.

It is very rare that we go a week without hearing about some sort of damage to property or burglary or something.

People who don't come from Tovil call it the Tovil Estate, referring to the place as somewhere no-one would want to go, let alone live, like some of us have to.

This negative stereotype is not good for the area but at the same time I cannot exactly argue with it when there are fires being set, shootings, or drug busts.

People need to get together to become proud of the area once again. I believe this would help to stop people wanting to rip the place to shreds and cover every wall with graffiti.

How we approach this, I am not sure, but one thing is certain, this sort of thing cannot continue or who knows what will happen next.

I am glad to hear that there may be a further police presence in the area but let's just see if that makes a difference. I wouldn't go putting too much money on it.

Steve, Tovil, Maidstone.

You should try living in the Medway Towns

I've just read the news item about the drug gangs in Tovil, try living in Gillingham.

The police insist they are doing a wonderful job, but in reality they have lost control of the Medway towns – except Rochester of course where they deploy a lot more officers and the council has a lot more employees keeping the place clean – while it's impossible to walk down Canterbury Street in Gillingham because of the dog mess.

I am an avid reader of yours and it's interesting to note the different priorities given to the different areas.

A frightened Gillingham resident.

Gary Wright considers the changing face of the poppy appeal and how we remember the fallen

REMEMBRANCE Sunday is next weekend and the poppies are out in force but this year there's a cool new poppy: one with a sticky back.

Genius. After 65 years modern tech has at last got rid of that bloody pin to hold the poppy in our lapels.

Get one today. Do it now (the sticky one costs the same as the pin on one) and they set off all manner of autumn clothing really well... oh yes, and it demonstrates you remember and you care.

Actually hands up everyone who thought I was going talk about the purple poppy. What you've not heard of the purple poppy? You wear with pride to remember all the animals that lost their lives and suffered in human conflict.

Did you also know that in this country, which does war memorials pretty well, there is a memorial to all the animals that died in conflicts around the world on the Park Lane side of Hyde Park?

Now, I don't want to say those animals should have died in vain, but line them up alongside the chickens and pigs that 'suffer' to get the food on my table each day and I reckon the memorial (£2 million in 2004) may be a bit over the top.

On Sunday I will make an effort to remember all those who gave their lives for my country.

I'm approaching 50, well it's quite a way off actually, and I believe I am the last generation for whom our parents, grandparents and relatives used the Second World War as a reference point. They simply called it "The War" ("The Great War" was 1914-18, of course).

We kids knew about it, yet it was the olden days to me (I was born 17 years after the end of The War, an eternity when you are a child)

In these inclusive times we are encouraged to remember all our servicemen in other conflicts like Korea and the Falklands. But while I admire the work of our servicemen even now in Afghanistan, that's not what "Poppy Day" is about.

This was about Armistice Day, the War to End All Wars and it was easy for a still reeling British public to include the Second World War.

Today a charity like Help for Heroes does brilliant work, so the need for the money that goes to the British Legion from poppy sales must diminish.

So, the poppy's day is probably numbered as a fundraiser – but it performs a secondary, important role.

Too many people moan that our country lacks an identity, that it is being diluted by multi-culturalism, that we don't have a clear idea of the meaning of being British. Surely the poppy symbolises it still?

And so the poppy brings us together as a nation every November to celebrate that we have stood up to tyranny when others have capitulated or rolled over.

In that cause millions have given their lives to enable us to live as we do today, and we should never forget them. And that must be a reason to celebrate.

Do buy a poppy, today (the sticky one is really good).

If there is a story in your area you think we should be covering contact the news editor, Simon Robinson, on 01303 817185 or email him on the details above. failure and fixed targets. It will get worse because among the self-employed and younger people an attitude of "I would do exactly the same if I could get away with it" exists.

Has tacit acceptance of corruption, sleaze and cover-ups become the norm? Casualised staff are suffering increasing hardship from job and housing insecurity. My message to the state sector is welcome to our world.

These heroes face death every day

What a disgraceful and disgusting blog by someone who clearly writes to throw up controversy.

There could have been any number of operational or personal reasons the emergency services didn't approach the scene straight away, not least I'd imagine, that they have their own families to think of.

I'd love for this blogger to meet a member of the emergency services who face death every day in one way or another and see how they feel about this blog.

Richard Harrop, by email

I'm certain your blogger is mistaken

I find it hard to believe that professional, trained emergency services would hang back from helping others because of fears for their own safety.

We depend on these undoubtedly brave people to help us in times like this and I am stunned at the thought they would make people wait in pain, bewilderment and fear while they made absolutely certain that it was safe to go in.

Undoubtedly, senior officers need to protect their men, but that should involve a quick and professional assessment of the immediate circumstances, not the long-winded period of prevarication that seems to have been the case here.

Malcolm Triggs, by email

Still time to fight for maternity services

In a few months, if the current plans proceed, there will be no consultancy-led maternity service at Maidstone hospital in my constituency, which means that every year, 2,000 mothers will be put at greater risk, and lethal consequences could follow.

Maidstone is a growth point area. There are many areas of multiple deprivation, and we have high rates of teenage pregnancy, so we need a full maternity service.

This has been a long and hard fought campaign, and I hope the Secretary of State hears the voice of the Maidstone community.

GPs, residents, business people, borough and county councillors, and other MPs in the region have all made their feelings clear; that the removal of consultant-led maternity services would be the wrong thing to do.

Join us to remember our fallen heroes

On November 11 at 11am, a Remembrance Day service will be taking place on level 4 of The Mall Chequers.

The 36 Regiment Drums will be present along with soldiers from the Regiment. Maidstone Town Centre Management and Audley Care Bearsted, Mote house have joined forces to bring this service to you. The Mayor will be reading Kohima, the standard bearer is provided by Royal British Legion, and many local dignitaries, local emergency service will be present.

Mobile cameras help save lives

As this year's Remembrance Sunday approaches, Animal Aid is distributing tens of thousands of its increasingly popular purple poppy.

Introduced five years ago, the purple poppy is specially produced to mark the terrible suffering animals endure as a consequence of human conflict. It can be worn alongside the traditional red, or white, ones as a reminder that both humans and animals have been – and continue to be – victims of war.

Throughout the history of human conflicts animals have been used as messengers, for detection, scouting and rescue, as beasts of burden and on the frontline.

They have been used for companionship in the trenches and continue to be subjected to warfare experiments in laboratories. Thousands of animals suffer and die each year in weapons research conducted in secret Ministry of Defence laboratories.

Although millions of animals have lost their lives as a result of human conflict, they are rarely mentioned in the remembrance ceremonies.

For years we have commemorated the human victims of war and overlooked the impact that worldwide conflicts have had on animals. Now, it's time to redress the balance. By wearing a purple poppy – alongside the traditional red one – we will finally be acknowledging that millions of animals have been drafted into conflicts not of their making and have lost their lives as a result. Remembering them is the least we can do.

Purple poppies are available from Animal Aid, The Old Chapel, Bradford Street, Tonbridge, Kent TN9 1AW, priced £1, which includes post and packing. A free copy of Animal Aid's booklet, Animals: the hidden victims of war, is available on request. Wreaths can also be purchased.

Media boss treks ancient Peru to aid kids' charities

■ BY NICK AMES AND KATY LITTLE

NEWSPAPER boss Paul Stannard took time out from making boardroom decisions to see what life is like in one of the most remote and historic places on earth.

As part of a drive to raise funds for Dave Lee's Happy Holidays and children's hospice Demelza House, he trekked through the rainforest of Peru, along mountain trails, across wide rivers and lakes before ending up in the fabled lost city of the Incas – Machu Picchu.

On the way, he encountered piranhas, tarantulas, battled altitude sickness and witnessed the ravages of a jungle storm.

"Children's charities in Kent are something KOS has been involved with for six years and I felt it was time I did something myself," said Mr Stannard, part of a group of 14 trekkers.

The trip followed the ancient trail of the Incas and at one point the group found themselves on a rickety structure erected 200ft up, looking down on the canopy of the rainforest.

The group were shown an insect which can stun a tarantula before laying its eggs in the deadly spider, and at night listened in tents to the sounds of the jungle creatures.

One of the main dangers of trekking in the Peruvian rainforest at altitude is fierce thunderstorms.

"The weather can change so quickly," said Mr Stannard, who described his journey as "very emotional" and the final descent into the ruins of the former Native American civilization as "overwhelming".

"When you climb the Sun Gate and look down on the city everybody gets emotional."

Mr Stannard said his trek gave him some new perspectives.

"It made me think about the people I was doing it for, about my family and life in general," he said.

"The local people are a hardy lot, maybe they haven't as much as others in some ways but they are always cheerful.

"The first couple of days were fine but later on I started thinking 'What on earth am I doing?'. But now I'm back I think it was a fantastic experience."

To donate to Dave Lee's Happy Holidays go

Hyacinth takes to the stage

KEEPING UP APPEARANCES

Churchill Theatre, Bromley,
November 8 to 13 November 2010

EXPECT candlelit suppers aplenty when Hyacinth Bucket – or should that be “Bouquet”? – graces the stage with her presence.

The ultra snob, who desperately wants to detach herself from her working class roots and undesirable family, was the focus of a long-running comedy on BBC1, but has now been brought to the boards.

An adaptation of the fondly-remembered sitcom, Keeping Up Appearances, comes to the Churchill Theatre in Bromley, with an all-star cast.

Gareth Hale, one half of TV comedy duo Hale and Pace, plays Onslow, Hyacinth's slobbish brother-in-law, who spends his days welded to an armchair, swigging cheap lager.

Gareth, who has starred in an adaptation of Scrooge in recent years, said: “An overweight, scruffy, lager-swilling, fast-food-gobbling, insult-hurling, workshy waste of space. But enough about me – Onslow's great! It's a great role and one I'm proud to be playing.”

The lady of the Bucket household will be joined by her sisters, man-eating sisters Rose and dowdy Daisy.

This version of Keeping Up Appearances has been written by the original series writer Roy Clarke, and features a brand new storyline.

Also appearing are Kim Hartman and Stephen Pinder, who for years played yuppie womaniser Max Farnham, on Brookside Close. They play long-suffering neighbours Elizabeth and Emmet.

Emmet, who feels nervous at the sight of the domineering Hyacinth, is directing a play for the local amateur dramatic company, and will go to extreme measures to keep Hyacinth out of it, especially if she wants to showcase her singing voice.

However, when Hyacinth hears that the part of Lady Malvern is yet to be cast, nothing will stop her. A case of mistaken identity adds to the hilarious consequences.

Rachel Bell, who takes the lead role of the at times maniacal Hyacinth, has worked on some of the most famous television shows of a generation, including Darling Buds Of May, Grange Hill and Dear John.

David Janson, from the original TV series of Keeping Up Appearances, will be starring in a surprise role.

Social climber Hyacinth Bucket was originally played by Patricia Routledge, with Clive Swift as her hen-pecked, often exasperated husband, Richard, a man who rues the day he was forced into early retirement.

The show shot to the top of the ratings and became a family favourite on Sunday nights as the world unravelled around Hyacinth.

The show has picked up new fans thanks to endless repeats, and has become a cult favourite around the world.

In 2004 it was voted 12th best British sitcom of all time, in a BBC poll and the name Hyacinth became a by word for snobbery and one-upmanship.

Even if you are not familiar with the original series, which ended in 1995, the strong characterisation and cast of star names will make this one to look out for.

The play, which was adapted for the stage just this year, will be one of the best shows this side of Christmas, so book early.

Call 08448 717620 or go to www.ambasadortickets.com/bromley.

NORTH KENT JAZZ ORCHESTRA

Friday, November 12, The Thorndike Arts Centre, Rochester Grammar School

KENT Music's North Kent Jazz Orchestra has been asked to perform as the warm-up act for the legendary jazz group The James Taylor Quartet.

The rare honour will provide the young musicians, all 18 or under, with the chance to play before a big name.

They will provide a jazz sextet to entertain the crowds milling in the bar and then the full jazz orchestra will be the warm-up act for the quartet before they take to the stage.

The orchestra was formed to introduce school-age children to the popular music of the 1920s through to the present day.

They perform regularly in the Medway Towns and throughout Kent and have played at concert halls as well as the more intimate setting of a garden party for Royalty.

The orchestra is directed by Phill Hyde, an experienced musician and teacher who has played all over the world and is much in demand as a session musician.

Phill also manages Kent Music's annual summer school, as well as the Kent Youth Wind Orchestra and Kent Youth Symphonic Band.

Tickets for the event cost £14 or £16 and can be booked by calling the reservation line on 01634 852814.

WHO'S BAD

Friday, November 24, Orchard Theatre, Dartford

FANS of the King of Pop will want to Moonwalk down to the Orchard Theatre for a live show to remember.

Described by The Independent as "the closest you will get now to seeing Michael Jackson live", the electrifying Who's Bad show is coming from the USA to the UK.

Wearing glitzy jackets, glittering gloves and 80s regalia, Who's Bad, the ultimate Michael Jackson Band, is an infectious production that takes audiences on a musical expedition spanning three decades of Jacko's chart-topping music.

From the early days of the Jackson Five and ABC to later tracks such as You Rock My World, no song is forgotten in this revival.

Who's Bad feature intricate performances complete with synchronised dance routines, blaring horn section and deep rhythms, each delivered with precision and style.

The set list will include stellar hits such as Earth Song, Bad, Don't Stop Till You Get Enough, Man in the Mirror, The Way You Make Me Feel and also lesser known songs such as Butterflies, Dancing Machine, Heartbreak Hotel, I Can't Help It, I'll Be There, I Want You Back and The Lady in My Life.

Tickets are £26.50. Visit www.orchardtheatre.co.uk or call 01322 220000.

PAVAO STRING QUARTET

Friday, November 12,
Bourne Hall, Sittingbourne Community College

THE glamorous female Pavão String Quartet will give a concert of popular pieces in Sittingbourne.

They will play George Gershwin's Lullaby as well as others of his songs. They will also play Sir Arnold Bax's glorious String Quartet No 1, with its Irish folk-tinged melodies, and the concert finishes with Dvorak's American Quartet in F, written while he was visiting the USA, with its references to popular American tunes and native American music.

The concert is presented by the Sittingbourne Music Society.

The Pavão Quartet has had a very busy year, and among other concerts they have been touring the country with the eminent singer Sir Willard White in a show entitled Robeson Re-explored.

The quartet formed at the Royal Academy of Music and have since worked with Andrew Kennedy, Elaine Paige, Hayley Westenra, Charlotte Church and Victoria Hart and are led by violinist Kerenza Peacock. Tickets cost £12 (£1 for under 18s) from Swade Music, Roman Square, Sittingbourne, or on the door. Call 01795 423589 to book. Visit www.pavaoquartet.com for details of the quartet.

THE COMEDY CLUB

Friday, November 5, Bridgewood Manor Hotel, Rochester

THE evenings may be drawing in, but top comics are set to light up the next Comedy Club night.

The Comedy Club proudly presents three top comedians. First on the mic, and MC for the evening is actress/comedienne Kerry Godliman.

The stand-up will be sure to get guests in the right frame of mind, with her cheeky brand of humour.

Next up is John Newton. Ready to lead people on a series of whimsical journeys, he leaves even the hardest audiences spellbound by his penetrating narratives and often sublimely tasteless comedy.

You might even find yourself contemplating such obscure subjects as the socio-economic stability of Thomas the Tank Engine's island home.

Headlining is Duncan Oakley.

With an eye and ear for the silly, rude, playful and downright irritating occurrences of life, Duncan musters up songs that bury themselves into the recesses of your mind and find you humming three days later.

Doors open at 7pm and tickets cost £22.95, including a meal and disco. Call 01634 201333 to book or for details go to www.hahaheeh.com

'ALLO, 'ALLO

Tuesday, November 9, to Saturday, November 13,
Hazlitt Theatre, Maidstone

LISTEN very carefully, I shall say this only once.

The Willington Players will be hamming it up when they bring TV classic 'Allo 'Allo to the stage next week.

The amateur dramatists will bring all the favourites from the show to the boards for a four-night run that will be full of laughs and a bundle of innuendos.

The show was a huge hit in the 80s and early 90s and has become a cult classic.

The action centres on war-torn France during the Second World War. Put-upon cafe owner Renee Artois, and his wife Edith need to keep the portrait of the Fallen Madonna with the Big Boobies under wraps from the occupying German forces.

Experience the plotting of Michelle, the leader of the Resistance, the terrible French accent of Crabtree, the fake French policeman and LeClerc's wireless disguised as a cockatoo.

The show is written by Jeremy Lloyd and David Croft.

Tickets are £10, £8.50 concessions.

Call the box office on 01622 758611 to book. Performances start at 7.30pm, but there is a matinee show at 2pm on Saturday, November 13.

Business Week Live

BUSINESS WEEK LIVE 2010 is the county's essential B2B exhibition and conference next Wednesday, November 10, at the Kent Showground, Detling.

It will be officially opened by Lord Michael Howard with exhibitors from across the county.

There is a programme of events with expert speakers on a range of subjects, from securing the best staff and social networking to global brand marketing and getting more investment.

You can be there with FREE tickets available when you register online at www.businessweeklive.co.uk

Thanks – but we do need those growth plans now

■ BY STEVE LOADER

POSITIVE economic statistics on the back of the austere yet palatable agenda set by the Government's Comprehensive Spending Review (CSR) have given confidence to Kent business leaders.

Figures up to the end of September show two consecutive quarters of UK growth above what had been forecast, meaning that even if the UK economy now marks time to the end of 2010, it will still outpace forecasts.

And High Street sales – a barometer of consumer confidence – have been higher for October than a year ago. But while this draws some of the sting of the CSR cuts, county businesses now want to hear how the Government will stimulate further growth.

Regional Institute of Directors' (IoD) chairman Chris Dodson said "clear and concise practical proposals" were needed "to make it easier for firms to employ people, not make it harder".

The IoD's regional director Rodger Broad also called on the Government to recognise the economic power and influence of the South East including Kent.

He said: "It is imperative the country plays to

ON THE UP: Shoppers' confidence and two consecutive quarters of growth have boosted hopes of business leaders its strengths and, economically, that is the South East. While we are not calling on the Government to stop supporting businesses in the other regions, the South East is better placed to benefit quicker from the upturn. Positive discrimination in favour of other regions will hold back recovery."

Highlighting that only London and the South East are net contributors to the Government's tax coffers, Mr Broad added: "Government spending cuts are only half of the solution, the other half is how to help businesses grow and create jobs which in turn will increase the tax take and reduce welfare expenditure."

And growth also headed Thames Gateway Chamber of Commerce's post-CSR agenda; director Paul Price said the review had underlined the UK was a safe investment, but "we now wait to see a strategy for growth". However, he was disappointed to see cuts in training.

"If the private sector is to create the jobs to drive this recovery it is essential that government can deliver the basic skills employers need.

"We are also disappointed the budget for export promotion has taken such a substantial hit when politicians say they want a rebalanced UK economy. British companies will be left in a weaker position compared to competitors from other trading nations," he added.

On the other hand, the IoD remains unconcerned by fears in some quarters that making deep cuts to bring down the debt faster risked pitching the country into a double-dip recession as confidence ebbed away.

Its own number-crunching turned up evidence from the 90s downturn that a tighter fiscal policy could go hand in hand with economic recovery.

Meanwhile, Peter Skinner – Labour's MEP for the South East – said he recognised the need for cuts, but called the CSR "a huge gamble with growth and jobs in Kent".

Answer to pantomime star's dilemma waited in the wings

Picture: PAUL JERRARD

PANTO star John Thomson's commute from Manchester to Kent was looking like a torture devised by the dastardly Sheriff of Nottingham, the character he plays in Robin Hood at Canterbury's Marlowe Theatre from December 4.

John – famous for appearances in Cold Feet and Coronation Street – was facing a long train journey from his Manchester home or flying into London Stansted and flogging around the M25.

Either way, it was a five-hour trip each way to his accommodation near Canterbury during the panto run and far too much extra time away from his wife and two young daughters – until he investigated Flybe's new 50-minute daily service between Manchester and Manston Airport in Thanet.

"It's an absolute godsend," he said after stepping off his plane en route to panto rehearsals.

"It makes perfect sense."

Airport's upgrading in operating status opens up 'new opportunities'

LYDD Airport development plans are closer to take-off after an upgrade to the site's operating status, writes Steve Loader.

The airport is currently awaiting news of a public inquiry into a runway extension and new passenger facilities, but the new Category Six rating is expected to boost its case – airports are rated globally on a scale of 1-10, with 17 of the world's biggest being rated 10.

The enhanced level of the Romney Marsh facility allows it to handle a larger class of commercial aircraft, such as the Bombardier Dash 8 Q400 and other regional airliners carrying up to 100 passengers.

It can also accommodate larger and faster transatlantic-capable corporate jets such as the Gulfstream G550.

Lydd Airport spokesman Jo Oliver said: "Having met strict criteria set down by the Civil Aviation Authority (CAA), we now have the capability to deal with a much wider range and size of aircraft. This is fantastic news and will enable us to attract more business.

"In fact, it's already opening up new opportunities for the airport."

The airport satisfied rigorous CAA requirements to achieve its new category, culminating in its annual emergency exercise and including 'Exercise Dash' to test airport operations units' ability to work alongside external emergency services during a major incident.

Lydd's senior airport fire officer, Paul Fisher, said: "The 'emergency' scenario involved a Bombardier DHC-8-400 aircraft carrying 74 passengers and four crew, which suffered a catastrophic engine failure just before take-off.

"Airport staff, members of Friends of Lydd Airport Group and local lifeguards played the role of the passengers who were evacuated to a special 'survivor reception' area."

Unplugged Rifle men take a shot

HOT SHOTS: The Rifles headline the Suburban Kings night at the Royal Function Rooms

■ BY SIMON ROBINSON

FOPPISH flower-waving singer Morrissey once had a skewed opinion on unplugged artistes.

The legendary Smiths frontman sang in hit 1985 single Shakespeare's Sister "I thought that if you had an acoustic guitar then it meant that you were a protest singer".

Oh, Morrissey.

Luckily for him, he was later able to see the error of his ways and he has reached the stage where he looks back at his childish naivety with fondness.

As we all – including Morrissey – know, acoustic guitars are not the exclusive weapon of choice of the protest singer.

The late Kurt Cobain and his Nirvana chums used the electric-free instruments for the memorable MTV Unplugged performance in 1993, for example.

Many other guitar acts have taken similar measures for one-off performances.

The latest band to do so are indie rock upstarts The Rifles, who will play a special acoustic gig in Kent next month.

The London-based outfit will perform unplugged at the Royal Function Rooms, Rochester, on Wednesday, November 24.

The new-look Rifles, whose numbers were reduced by half after bassist Rob Pyne and drummer Grant Marsh quit last month, will headline the monthly Suburban Kings night.

The support acts are due to be announced in the coming days.

Promoter Matt Harvey said: "Suburban Kings is bringing back real music to real music venues in Medway.

"We're over the moon to announce that The Rifles will be playing a special acoustic set at the Royal Function Rooms, the UK's 2nd oldest stage.

"This will be a great, great gig." Co-promoter Chris Pritchard added: "We're really pleased to have this gig on. It feels like a new beginning for us and must be one of the highest-profile bands to have played Medway for well over a year now."

The Chilean landscape leaves you feeling on top of the world

■ BY ALISTAIR KEELY

WHILE images of Chilean miners returning from deep in the earth have been beamed around the world, today I'm as far from those pictures as it's possible to get.

Standing at the summit of Toco volcano, 5,625 metres above sea level, I feel as if I've just climbed the highest mountain in the world.

Despite the elation, my head is pounding and my lungs scream for oxygen.

On high-altitude-hiking in Chile, the oxygen-depleted atmosphere makes you feel you have the worst hangover ever, combined with a touch of flu.

So why go through such an ordeal? All around me is the answer: breathtaking views of the Bolivian Altiplano, Argentina and the Atacama saltflats.

Toco, one of the highest peaks of northern Chile, is also one of the most accessible. You don't need to be related to Sir Edmund Hillary to conquer it, just reasonably fit and prepared for a bit of discomfort.

However, I have a confession to make. The hike up Toco was eased by the fact we were driven to 5,000 metres before we began hiking.

After a slow descent, and celebratory beer and sandwiches in the van, we returned to base camp – the sumptuous Tierra Atacama hotel.

On the edge of San Pedro de Atacama, a picturesque village in the high plains of northern Chile, the hotel calls itself "an adventure spa".

Here guests can combine the active enjoyment of the desert – without sacrificing pampering time. Built to blend with its surroundings, the hotel is made of local mate-

Alistair Keely stayed at Tierra Atacama, where seven nights' full board in a double room costs from £1,807, including transfers, breakfast, lunch and dinner, open bar, daily excursions, use of pools and sauna. rials and each room has stunning views. Every morning I opened my curtains to see two volcanoes.

Every room is en suite and comes with a luxurious four-poster bed, sunbathing terrace and even an outdoor shower.

After you've chilled out, it's time to sit and enjoy Chile's national drink, a pisco sour, beside an open fire and plan the next day's activities, or indulge yourself in a spa treatment.

The hike up the volcano is one of many options from the hotel. Other adventures include biking through Devil's Canyon, visiting dramatic geysers and 900-year-old cacti, horse-riding, hiking through Death Valley and birdwatching.

After my Toco adventure I opted for a hike through Death Valley to see flamingos feeding at sunset.

Death Valley was named by a Belgian explorer after the planet Mars. But instead of calling it Valle de Martes, he incorrectly pronounced it Valle de la Muerte – meaning death – and the name stuck.

The name is fairly appropriate, however. Little life is visible as you walk through a moon-like valley with spectacular twisted rock formations and sand dunes.

The flamingo trip to the Salar de Atacama was also memorable.

Leaving the hotel by van at 3.30pm, we went south, via the village of Toconao, famous for its fruit trees and historic bell tower, before heading to the saltflats.

Here flamingos feed on the tiny pink shrimps that give them their colour. As the sun sets, the region is bathed in a fantastic purple light as birds gather in large numbers.

The soft gurgle of running water intermingles with bird cries.

Every so often a group of flamingos rises into the air to seek another place in which to feed, against the dramatic backdrop of surrounding volcanoes and the setting sun.

Offering an independent choice

IN our third Your local supplement we once again take a look at some of our most successful businesses and discover their secrets.

Independents really do offer an alternative to the multi-nationals and the chains as well as bringing choice to the consumer.

For business owners we hope the stories will inspire you to try something new or maybe even inspire some of you to take a step toward starting your own company.

For customers we hope you will see some alternatives in a wide range of purchases, from furnishing your home to servicing your car... or even fitting a new kitchen.

And for some, as we have already found with previous supplements, the stories may be a catalyst for starting your own business.

In addition we have regular columnist QJ who looks at coping with the life as a lone entrepreneur.

And we welcome back Nock Rowell, director of policy at Kent Invicta Chamber, who writes an open letter to the Prime Minister following last week's Spending Review.

We hope you enjoy the supplement, and do let us know your stories.

AS the song Killer by Seal says, 'It's loneliness that's the killer'.

If I were to know what one single reason is responsible for very small businesses giving up, I'd guess it was being on your own! It can be really demotivating, demoralising, and ultimately, the death of your business.

'A problem shared is a problem halved', is what my dad used to say. And there is a psychological and scientific basis for this belief.

Human beings are herding animals. We like and need to be in families, groups, teams and communities.

Launching and running your own small business is often so far away from this natural, desired state that it causes major problems around things like self-esteem, confidence and the ability to keep-on, keeping-on.

Never having worked for another living soul, I have frequently been in the undesirable place that is: 'on your own, mate!' So how do we deal with this? What can you do that will ensure your survival – emotionally that is?

In the early days of any new business, it's extremely unlikely that you will afford 'other people', and this will mean that going to work is a solitary experience: one that for many is a new feeling, and a new way of operating.

Eventually, if one is successful and can afford to start employing other people, the loneliness can disappear, but is often replaced by that other OMG of business, 'I'm not just responsible for managing myself, but now I have to manage someone else as well!' Paradoxically though, this can also lead to an even greater feeling of loneliness.

Recently, a client of mine wanted help because although he has a team of staff that carry out the practical work his business provides, he is often overwhelmed with a feeling of 'them' and 'me'. Merely the responsibility can make him feel he's on his own. His staff is depending on him for everything. So what's the solution?

Beat the self-employed blues

Well, I thought I'd give you a couple of ideas, but first, let's look at the reason we don't like to be on our own – at least not all the time. One of our fundamental needs is connection with other people.

We're not talking about deep relationships, just those that make us feel better about ourselves. In business, we don't need to be everyone's best friend but we do need to have colleagues with whom we can share and discuss ideas and experiences or just people we can learn from or look up to.

The important thing in all of this is 'conversation'. I use the word conversation because it has to be two-way.

So, as a caveat to this approach, decide that in seeking out any new relationship, your intention will be to give and share your ideas, your time and yourself. If you look selfishly, then chances are you'll lose more than you gain.

Vital Friends

In Tom Rath's book, Vital Friends, he reminds us that in business historically 'people development' has been in two areas: personal, or developing the individual; and developing the team or group or department. Vital Friends gives clear evidence of why developing one-to-one relationships – and viewing them as such – is so valuable, not just in terms of the 'feel-good' and job satisfaction factor, but in terms of bottom line profitability and low staff turnover. So, here are three of twelve) types of people that you could benefit from a relationship with if you suffer from The Loneliness of the Entrepreneur.

1. People who are already successful in your sector. Yes, this can mean competitors. Seek out a relationship with someone you admire who is already successful. This can seem scary at first, but what I've found over the years is that people love to be asked for advice. It's flattering and if you can find a mentor who will share their 'time' with you, either on the phone or face to face, then you will never be lost for ideas or motivation. I have two mentors at the moment, both of whom I can freely email or phone whenever I want – fantastic!

2. Connectors. If you go networking, you'll know that there are those people who know everyone. Those are the people who we call connectors and you know what? They'll connect you with other people if you ask and so build your anti-loneliness network. If you don't currently go networking, then START TODAY. There is no other more profitable way of building the relationships that can and will (if done professionally) transform your fortunes.

3. People who sing your praises. These may be clients who love what you do – or your mum! They'll shout your name from the rooftops and talk about how brilliant it is to do business with you. I know that I have often ignored these 'fans' as a great source of connection. Now that I regularly phone them and ask how they're doing and what do they think I could do next with my business idea, I get so many 'problems' sorted for me. I no longer have to do all the work myself.

This is just three of a list of twelve types of people to connect with. And if confidence is your issue because you don't feel comfortable about making these kinds of friendships, then give me a call.

Business is booming for company ironing out our domestic chores

FEW women will admit that they enjoy ironing – and even fewer men.

But the necessity to deal with domestic chores such as washing, ironing and dry cleaning has seen business boom for one Kentish company.

Iron Maids, based mid-way between Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells, is currently cleaning up on the 21st century woman's plea for more help in the home.

Founded in rural Laddingford 18 months ago, when just one woman was 'manning' the ironing board, Iron Maids has grown from strength to strength and now employs 12 women full-time, all busy ironing other people's clothes on a daily basis.

Business has expanded so much that the company is now looking to open additional premises, as ironing floods in from as far afield as Ashford, Knockholt, Chatham and Wadhurst.

Iron Maids offers a free courier collection and drop-off service for all laundry, ironing and dry cleaning.

Proprietor Karen Wilkinson said: "If you're a busy working woman, what could be better than coming home to find all the washing and ironing done?"

Many of Karen's clients are professional men and women. She has seen the business grow from single men wanting to see a neatly-stacked pile of freshly laundered shirts at the start of the week, to women heading home from the City, also keen to shed the weekly wash and inevitable pile of ironing.

IRON MAIDS: The team on top of the washing

Karen said: "Even if you enjoy ironing, it all takes time. Working men and women – especially those with young families – have a limited amount of free time and want to make the most of it, not spend it slaving over an ironing board."

It's not only personal customers who are taking advantage of the service either. Many businesses, including hotels, restaurants, wedding planners, event organisers, offices – even sports teams – are also thankful to outsource laundry to a company which promises a fast and reliable service with a maximum two-day turnaround.

With increasing numbers of customers also using Iron Maids for laundry and dry cleaning, Karen thinks another secret of the business's success is that she has pitched the pricing right.

Ironing is priced at a flat rate of £2.70 per kg (rather than per item) with washing and ironing coming in at £3.75 per kg. Dry cleaning is equally competitive, with the cost of dry cleaning a suit just £9.50 – on a par or less than many high street cleaners.

Karen said: "Our customers like the personal contact and knowing they get a good quality service from people they can trust."

Iron Maids has invested in an attractive website and works hard at search engine optimisation. Karen said: "There's a lot more to ironing than meets the eye nowadays!"

Look again at business funds

Dear Mr Cameron

I'm afraid your rhetoric about 'forensic, relentless focus on growth', and your planned £81bn of relentless cuts, are distractions from our main challenge today: our broken financial system.

Well-targeted cuts in public spending are necessary but UK PLC will only prosper if we re-invent banking to serve customers and the wider economy ahead of bankers and their shareholders.

Nouriel Roubini, who predicted the credit crash, has explained what all can see, the 'elephant in the room': Banks are deemed too big to fail and "it's back to business as usual, lots of leverage, lots of risky investments and return to high profits based on subsidies by the government, bonuses, salaries – you name it. So we're planting the seeds of the next financial asset bubble."

And the cost to Britain? Well, apart from the billions lost in industrial output, profits/taxes and jobs, a Bank of England official estimates the subsidy to British banks over the last three years at an annual average £59bn (see Financial Times leading article 22/10/10). And the financial markets expect a further £50bn from 'Quantitative Easing' early next year. This money will not aid the real economy, simply bankers will use it for proprietary speculation.

No wonder you need to show our international creditors that we are cutting public spending so hard. If, compared with your £81bn savings, £50bn-£60bn gets squandered on QE every year, our creditors are rightly sceptical. It is time for constructive action, not rhetoric to hide the lack of an effective strategy to re-finance the economy.

Business needs this re-financing. September's Trends Report by the Bank of England shows net lending to businesses falling for the past two years. Some large companies may be coping, but the British Chambers of Commerce Quarterly Economic Survey for Q3 2010 reports a marked slowdown in the pace of growth.

If private enterprise is to lead us through this recession, firms need adequate tools including access to sensible credit. Only then can they flourish to create jobs and economic growth.

Nick Rowell runs his own company, The Portable Business School, and assists both Kent Invicta Chamber and the Federation of Small Businesses with regular Member Surveys in Kent. In this open letter he asks the Prime Minister to re-evaluate the business finance sector following the Spending Review

The Federation of Small Businesses' half-yearly survey for Kent shows that owner-managers tend to hang onto their staff, even when sales and confidence are down; whilst as sales pick up, confidence and hiring recover very slowly. So fostering small businesses maintains jobs. Moreover, this doesn't stoke inflation: most businesses forego some profit-taking to build future growth.

So, Britain must establish alternative institutions to the banks. We must make it attractive to invest in productive, real-economy UK businesses for those with spare cash. High-earners will be looking to replace the pensions tax allowance to be slashed from April. Please consider extending tax relief to convertible loans, not just equity participation. Entrepreneurs don't need co-founders, but co-funders.

Enlist institutions with sufficient 'reach', as well as stable cash-flow. Include mutuals such as Building Societies and businesses whose principal activity is not finance (eg supermarkets) that lend at realistic interest rates. Consider devoting one or more of our state-sponsored banks to traditional banking services.

This strategy lets big banks focus on their global investment business, generating tax for the Exchequer whilst paying themselves what they please. No need to demerge their investment and retail arms to undo "Big Bang". We'd regain an effective supply side in commercial banking, without excluding big banks from competing or diminishing their scope to service the cash-rich.

We all want stable growth to support healthy public finances. This requires a healthy stock of businesses able to invest in their productive capacity. But they can't do it on the unrealistic credit terms set by big banks whose overriding cash worries and short-termist ambitions continue to hijack government policy.

Please act to re-establish a diverse banking sector, where institutions unencumbered by the dodgy mortgage "albatross" can compete and prosper.

All of us – not just the big banks – need access to realistic credit at affordable rates.

Award-winning reason people keep coming back to our county

GUEST house owners are the warm and friendly face of Kent who ensure visitors to the county go away with fond memories and look forward to returning – and Lynn Ruse is one of the best.

Lynn, who runs Barclay Farmhouse in Biddenden, won the title of Bed and Breakfast Employee of the Year at the Pride in Ashford and Tenterden Awards 2010. Her success should prove an inspiration for others to enter the 2011 awards.

Driven by her late father's belief that if a job is worth doing, it is worth doing well, Lynn is determined to make sure every guest enjoys their stay in the county.

"I like to look after my guests from the moment they make their booking. That includes meeting and greeting them on their arrival, chatting to them about local attractions to visit, arranging restaurant bookings and even providing transport if necessary," said Lynn.

"I take pride in providing a locally sourced and healthy breakfast so I shop for fresh ingredients every day."

Lynn's devotion to her work extends to a desire to win a National Tourism Award for Excellence in the future, one of the objectives she set herself when she originally opened her Bed and Breakfast business.

"The appreciation and thanks you receive from guests at the end of their stay is very rewarding," she said. "It means I know they have enjoyed their time with us and can't wait to return."

"Customer service is so important, it's a necessary part of the guest package. We want our guests to be happy and have a memorable experience – one that keeps them coming back year after year."

The Pride Awards are part of the Celebrating Kent initiative led by Visit Kent raising awareness of the importance of leisure, tourism and hospitality businesses. The industry contributes more than £2.5 billion each year to the county economy and supports more than 50,000 jobs.

If you know someone who gives exceptional customer service, then the deadline for the 2011 Pride in Ashford and Tenterden Awards nominations is February 28.

Family run business with expert friendly staff

Staff are in the mow at GC Stevens giving customers the information they need

ESTABLISHED in 1939, GC Stevens has provided an extensive range of garden machinery and stoves across Kent for almost 70 years.

Starting out as a circular and chainsaw specialist, the Sittingbourne based firm expanded in the 1970s and was the first company to introduce Honda garden machinery in Kent. Soon after, stoves and cookers followed along with chimney liners and associated products.

The company's aim is to provide quality products at competitive prices. Repeat business is high giving an insight into the integrity of the products and services on offer.

Mrs Stevens says she believes an intensive staff training programme together with the large range of stock gives this family business the edge.

She said: "Our staff are all well trained and we aim to give a one-to-one service that goes beyond the sale."

The store holds a large stock of spares for the products they sell together with a convenient collection and delivery service for most large items.

Staff retention is high at this firm, testament to the owner's investment in its work force – the longest serving fitter has been with the firm for more than 40 years.

A tailored service is available for products such as wood stoves – from surveying and designing to fitting and servicing.

This wealth of experience and diversity of products means GC Stevens appeals to both the independent gardener or to the large landscape company.

GC Stevens and Son is based at Unit 1, Centre 2000, St Michaels, Sittingbourne, ME10 3DZ.

The store is open Monday to Friday from 8am to 5.30pm and Saturday from 8am to 3.30pm. It is closed on Sundays. For more information email info@gcstevens.co.uk or visit www.gcstevens.co.uk.

Special style

WHEN it comes to supplying European style to a local market, Bellegrove Ceramics, in Strood, knows that it is important to make sure the customer is treated like a king.

Stylish products are what the business prides itself on – but there is always that added touch which personalises any dealings.

Proud of its independent operations across Kent the company also has the backing of a top Italian firm – but it never loses its focus on the local market.

Producing its wide range of exceptional goods from its own factories, Bellegrove makes sure that its designs reflect what customers want in their homes.

All interiors are catered for and the company's experts are always on hand with advice as to what will make a room sparkle.

And for householders who want to stamp their own designs on the home there is so much variety to choose from.

Bellegrove has been a national distributor of ceramic tiles and associated products for nearly 50 years so has built up unrivalled expertise.

During this time the company has supplied products to most sectors of the ceramic tile market including retailers and distributors, architects and developers, designers and house builders, contractors and specifiers.

All of whom have their exact needs tailored to as time is spent assessing exactly what is needed.

Italian tiles

FLOORED: Bellegrove Ceramics in Strood offers Italian tiles for any interior of the highest quality

As part of the Italian manufacturing group "Gruppo Ceramiche Ricchetti" Bellegrove offers the widest range of quality porcelain and ceramic tiles direct from its own factories.

Exceptional tiles combining the essential elements of quality and design with dynamic styling at affordable prices are the hallmark of one of the most successful and popular businesses of its type in the UK.

Philip Roberts said: "Quite frankly being a successful independent business comes down to one thing – customer service.

"This is all embracing, it's more than treating customers the way you like to be treated yourself and it's more than having the right products at the right price.

"It's about careful selection of product based on quality, design, reliability and value for money.

"It's about dealing with customers in a courteous and professional manner in a proper and relevant environment and it's also about after sales, keeping customers properly informed, meeting timely delivery deadlines and addressing any queries or concerns."

Italians products of all sorts have become a byword for style over the last 100 or even more years.

But few companies manage to combine the very best of European design with a truly local and personal service.

Building specifically with farmers in mind

A KENT building group with a national profile has set up a new division aimed specifically at providing quality services to farmers across the south east.

Cole Agri-build will combine the renowned building skills of Cole Construct's Bethersden workforce with the farming background of the well-respected Luke Alexander to provide general construction services and steel-framed buildings for the local agricultural industry.

Cole Construct was set up by Daniel Calnan in 2008 and has been growing strongly despite the recession. It has already gone from a one-man band to a five-strong team that includes in-house designer Danielle Petersmann.

Luke Alexander, who comes from a farming family and trained as a rural surveyor before working as a director of a diverse agricultural business, is looking forward to joining the Cole Group stable at the helm of Cole Agri-build.

"We think there is a real need for a good local service provided by a company that knows about farming as well as about building," explained Daniel, "and we are delighted that Luke is here to help with it."

Agri-build will also focus on renewable energy, working with farmers to help them benefit from the new 'feed-in tariffs' that offer a payback for every unit of electricity generated by a solar panel, wind

EXPERIENCE: Luke Alexander is joining the group turbine or biomass energy technology.

"The average barn roof could generate as much as £20,000 of income a year through having photovoltaic solar panels mounted on the roof," explained Luke.

The Cole Group also includes Four Seasons Fencing, run by Cole Construct co-director Graeme Allison. Another big player on the national scene, Four Seasons is currently installing fencing and vehicle barriers for the Westfield Shopping Centre, adjacent to the main Olympic Park site in Stratford, East London.

With such comprehensive support from companies within the group, Cole Agri-build will be able to provide a complete design and build service to local farmers who know they can rely on Luke's expert advice.

"Farming is a specialist area and farmers like to deal with a building company that not only understands building but understands the issues associated with farming. At Cole Agri-build we bring together the right skills and experience to create a cost-effective, quality solution to on-farm building," Luke added.

Cole Agri-build can tackle all kinds of general construction work, repairs, extensions and diversification projects as well as designing and erecting steel-framed buildings for general and specialist uses.

Sister company Cole Construct is meanwhile putting the finishing touches to the new warehouse and office premises it has designed and built at Moat Way, Ashford, for SuperCups Vending.

That combination of quality building, in-house design services and farming knowledge will be welcomed by farmers who would rather be out in the fields tackling 'the day job' while the experts look after the latest project back in the yard.

Accountants' new system to help beat the down turn

PH ACCOUNTANCY in Whitstable has taken an unprecedented step to help their clients in these difficult times. They have invested in one of the world's leading business growth and marketing systems, so clients can get FREE access to this valuable resource.

The 'Business Growth System' itself has helped to generate tens of millions of pounds worldwide for companies in over 250 different industries. It's a UK system; built, developed and improved over a 15 year period.

Commenting on this innovative scheme Andy Page, managing director of PH Accountancy said: "We are absolutely delighted to be launching this valuable time-tested resource to our clients. We have always sought ways to help our clients grow their businesses.

"Investing in one of the leading business growth and marketing systems, so our clients can get free and expert help shows how committed we are to helping our clients prosper during these tough times."

The Business Growth System is owned and developed by the Academy For Growth. Simon Organ, managing director of the Academy comments: "We are delighted to provide the Business Growth System to the clients of PH Accountancy, it's clear they are a forward-thinking firm of account-

DEDICATED: PH Accountancy has invested in The Business Growth System to assist clients' business ants who have a strong desire to see their clients succeed and prosper even during challenging economic times.

"PH Accountancy has recognised that accountancy firms have difficulty in differentiating themselves. However, by investing in the Business Growth System, PH Accountancy can now provide it free of charge to their clients, clearly demonstrating that not every accountant is the same. Ordinarily the system is available to buy for £1,175 for each business, so this commitment shows the steps PH Accountancy are prepared to take to help all their clients succeed and we applaud it."

Don't be blind to a great local company

STARTING a business in a recession is not easy but it means you are better prepared for what lies ahead.

Tony and Julie Holt began their own blind and curtain company in Chatham in 1989.

Julie Holt said: "It was a tough time to start but my husband didn't want to work for anyone else anymore. We had some difficult times but we have managed to grow and grow since then and moved to bigger premises."

The couple took up the Apollo blinds franchise around 14 years ago and have been trading from the Lordswoods Industrial estate for ten years.

Mrs Holt said: "Like everyone else we have been hit by the current economic climate but I think because we went through a downturn at the start we can keep going now but we do have bigger overheads than we did then."

The company supplies a vast selection of roller blinds, venetian blinds and vertical blinds to both domestic and commercial properties as well as curtains, canopies, shutters and other hangings for windows.

The market for such goods has expanded but it does mean there is more competition particularly the big DIY chains.

Mrs Holt said: "People are more conscious of spending money on their home. Designs are a lot more coordinated but there is also a lot more competition. We have to compete with the cheap readymade blinds that people can buy. They may not last long but it is a cheap option for people if they want to take it."

"That why it's important we offer the complete made-to-measure home service for our customers. It's all about building up a good relationship so they will come back."

As with anything to do with decoration Mrs Holt says fashions come and go.

She said: "A few years ago everyone wanted swags and fancy curtains now the trend is for much more minimalistic and neutral colours."

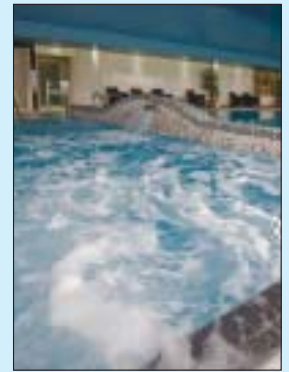

At the moment wooden shutters for the inside of windows are all the rage. You have no fabric and replace it with the shutters. It's more like a piece of furniture."

The company has also benefitted from working with large clients such as Kent Fire and Rescue, the police and county council, as well as government contracts for job centres and prisons.

But private homeowners are still the majority of the businesses and customers have become more demanding.

Mrs Holt said: "Even if you are ten minutes late you can get people demanding compensation so it can be more stressful. It is a tougher environment with clients but it just means you have to rely on the quality of your service."

HIGHLY COMMENDED: The London Beach Country Hotel in Tenterden was recognised at the Kent Environment Awards

Pure luxury and relaxation that doesn't cost the environment

LONDON Beach Country Hotel in Tenterden was highly commended at this year's Kent Environment Awards.

The awards, run by Kent County Council, recognise and reward Kent businesses for innovative environmental and community work they undertake. London Beach was a finalist at the awards and recognised for its consideration to the environment while developing the spa and golf course last year.

More than £3 million was invested into the hotel to develop environmental technologies including: solar panels; heat recovery system; new LED lights and a sustainable irrigation system using rain run-off and water diversion systems.

These investments resulted in approximately nine million litres of water and more than 48,000kW of electricity saved each year. During construction of these processes, much thought was put into how the hotel could reach its full environmental potential.

"I am delighted that the work we have put into developing the hotel to ensure it is environmentally friendly has been recognised by these respected awards," said Pierre Edmonds, owner of the hotel. "We'll continue to ensure we save energy and resources and shall take into consideration environmental impacts when we plan future developments to the hotel."

Situated in the charming Weald of Kent, the London Beach Country Hotel is perfect for a retreat in the countryside. Guests are welcomed to take advantage of its spa, health club and parkland golf course.

A one-stop shop for all your MOT needs

AN Ashford garage has revitalised premises it moved out of at the beginning of 2009 to create a local MOT business within walking distance of the town centre.

When D+D Autos moved to its new, purpose-built premises in Moat Way, Orbital Park a year and a half ago, it brought to an end a quarter of a century of service at its old Victoria Road premises.

While the jumble of buildings it left behind were not up to the job of providing a 21st century service and repair facility, they were handy for the town centre and were missed by a number of Ashford customers.

Now the family business, headed by Derek Petridge, has reopened part of the old site as MOT Express Ashford under the care of long-serving employee Alan Crawford, one of the most experienced MOT testers in the area.

Alan has been testing local vehicles for the best part of 25 years and has been with D+D since February 1993. He's delighted to be at the helm of the Victoria Road business and is offering a dedicated MOT service that is proving ideal for people who work in the town.

"Our new premises at Moat Way offer first class facilities for service, repairs and MOTs, but some of our old customers liked the fact that they used to be able to walk into town while their car was being tested," explained Lorraine Fuller, D+D Autos' operations manager.

"As well as being useful to those customers, MOT Express Ashford has helped to boost trade in the town itself and has allowed us to take on another tester, which is a little bit of good news during these difficult times."

Driving a successful business

THE Vauxhall franchise, situated in London Road, Bapchild, (on the A2) has been operating since 1992 and prides itself on the quality of service it provides together with its commitment to the community.

The family firm was established after managing director, David Pomphrey, acquired the business and assets of a former Vauxhall dealer at the site.

Now in its 19th year, Pomphreys has evolved into a one-stop shop for drivers offering a wide choice of new and used cars, from the compact Agila to the premier Insignia, together with a range of vans. It also offers servicing and repairs, a parts department, an MOT centre and an accident repair operation.

Marketing manager Kathy Skipp believes the company's ethos of quality and customer care has seen it through several economic down - turns and

AWARD-WINNER: The London Road Vauxhall franchise is a family run firm priding itself on quality of service endeared itself to the community.

She said: "It's a great place to work. There's a good atmosphere and team spirit. We take pride in what we do and we try to understand the needs of each customer individually."

"We have a tremendous amount of repeat business. Some of our customers bought a car from us nearly twenty years ago and have kept coming back and now their children have come to us for their first car. That's very satisfying."

If the quality of service is important to Pomphreys then so is its workforce - evident by staff retention levels with some clocking up more than thirty years.

Finding independent evidence of Kathy's testimonial isn't difficult. The company holds an investor in people status - awarded by the British Standards Institute (BSI) - recognising Pomphreys' efforts in leading, managing and developing the people who run its operation.

BSI has also approved the company for the quality management systems in place.

Kathy says unlike other independent dealers the conditions of the Vauxhall franchise is a further guarantee of quality.

"As a franchise we are approved by Vauxhall to sell their cars and in order to do so we must comply with a strict set of rules, regulations and standards. We are regularly spot checked."

Pomphreys has shrewdly built up solid ties with the community in Sittingbourne and surrounding areas sponsoring and supporting hundreds of groups and good causes over the years.

Škoda. Manufacturer of happy drivers.

PROVIDING exemplary customer service is the key factors in building a successful business.

That is the view of Adrian Pile, sales manager at Northgate Alfa Romeo garage in Canterbury a business that has stood the test of time.

Not far from Canterbury Cathedral, the dealership has been trading in its current form as an Alfa garage for more than 15 years.

Treating the customers with the respect is the main reason why the business has been successful, says Adrian.

"We always do our utmost to make sure that people who come to us for whatever reason are given the very best we can offer. It's our main aim," he said.

"It's important that customers have trust in you and what you're doing and that is something we strive for. It is nice for them to come in and meet the same staff and recognise us so we can build up a real relationship with the customers. It's something we take pride in and always have.

"It makes a big difference when customers come back to a dealership and see the same face each time, it enables you to build up a bit of rapport with them and helps you understand their needs to a greater extent. We don't treat people as a number here. We are always straight with people and don't just tell them what they want to hear, by giving them any old flannel. We tell them how it is and spell out all the options."

The dealership has a dozen staff under Adrian, but selling the most emotive and historic of Italian cars is only part of its operation.

Body repairs, servicing, free estimates and MOTS are also under their remit.

Adrian said it was making sure everything is down to the highest of standards that is also a factor in Northgate Alfa's ongoing story.

He said: "All our parts are the official Alfa Romeo ones. If you use the trade parts then you find that they may not fit, wear out quickly or fail, whereas ours are guaranteed for 12 months, which offers customers real piece of mind."

Steering customers to what they really need

'Success comes from being straight with people and giving them options'

HIGH STANDARDS: Customer service is the number one priority at Northgate Alfa Romeo garage in Canterbury where selling beautiful cars is only part of the business

Adrian said that he still enjoys the work and has never seriously considered leaving Northgate Alfa.

"I've been here 30 years now and I've had other opportunities but always decided to stay here as I like it so much.

"We used to be a Renault dealership before we changed to Fiat in 1992, then also got Alfa in 1994, which was a big deal for us as it's such a great brand. We just outgrew the site, doing both Fiat and Alfa from here so split it, and now have a Northgate Fiat in Westminster Road."

MOTORS NEWS

Hyundai's downsizer comes with all the toys

HYUNDAI cranks up competition in the mini-MPV sector from November 18 with the launch of its roomy yet compact ix20, priced from £11,595.

The niche was identified by the Honda Jazz, but the trend for downsizing has increased demand and choice and the Hyundai will appeal not just on pricing, but also with its five-year warranty.

Standard features kicking off three trim levels include height-adjustable driver's seat, air con, six airbags plus active head restraints, and six-speaker sound system with MP3/USB input.

Lexus hybrid cuts costs without compromise

LEXUS has announced an attractive entry price of £23,485 for its all-new CT200h executive hatchback hybrid.

With a road tax-exempt 94g/km CO2 emissions, potential average mpg of nearly 70 and a 10 per cent benefit-in-kind company car tax rating plus the upmarket badge, the petrol-electric model should make company car user choosers think twice.

But buyers will need to opt for mid-grade SE-L (£25,200) for the true executive leather seats, with heated front ones.

C3 gets Cherry aid to boost Picasso's sales

IT probably didn't need it, but Citroën's award-winning C3 Picasso MPV (from £12,695) has been updated and is now available with an ultra-low emission 110bhp diesel and six-speed gearbox.

The 90bhp sister diesel is also sold in a Blackcherry special edition (£15,195), with cherry red and black detailing, plus high spec including roof bars, cherry red diamond-tipped alloys, air con, cruise control and USB/Bluetooth connectivity.

All C3 Picasso diesels now escape road tax in year one and the whole range has energy-saving Michelin tyres.

DISTINCTIVE: The almost all-new Saab 9-5 delivers everything you'd expect from the brand – turbocharged generous spec, comfort, acres of space, and traditional design

Saab back from the brink with powerful new twist

ONLY Sweden's Saab – famous for original thinking – could have fabricated a Norse saga involving the brand's near death experience earlier this year.

The former General Motors (GM) brand is fast reviving though, in partnership with Dutch supercar maker Spyker, and tapping into much goodwill in the UK, where it is also celebrating 50 years in the car market.

Leading the revival is the long-awaited Saab 9-5 replacement – the previous car can trace its origins to 1997.

Though based on the classy Vauxhall Insignia during Saab's final years with GM, as much as 70 per cent of the new 9-5 is all our own work, say the Swedes.

The distinctive bodywork is certainly in the great Saab tradition – so, in Abba-speak, you could say the brand is re-Bjorn.

It is priced from £26,695 with a generous standard spec and hi-tech features including aircraft-style head-up display, adaptive lighting and cruise control, adaptive chassis, keyless entry and starting, dual-zone air con; dynamic parking assistance and all-wheel drive.

The engine line-up is all turbocharged – what did you expect from the turbo master brand? – and includes a 1.6-litre petrol unit that concedes little in performance to the slightly dearer diesel entry model, though fuel consumption is markedly inferior.

The 160PS (157bhp) 2.0-litre TiD Vector SE diesel we tested feels heavy and, like standard versions of the Insignia – not as nimble as you come to expect from BMW and Audi rivals.

But the ride comfort and long-distance cruising ability is impressive, with loads of space for those in the back and a massive boot.

The cabin isn't gaudy or innovative, but just carefully laid out in the Saab way; aficionados like to think Saab dashboards can trace their lineage back to the aviation parent company.

The powertrain and six-speed auto gearbox matches this refinement and the front-end styling won't let you down in the office car park.

I think the designer's hand strayed a little towards the rear of the car, but this opinion started a lively debate whenever I raised it with colleagues, so it's one of those "beauty is in the eye of the beholder" motors.

PROPERTY NEWS

Rise in property prices damage chance of sale

ASKING prices for UK property rose by three per cent during October, research shows.

The average home for sale has seen an increase in price of just over £7,000, according to property website Rightmove.

For the past three months the housing market suffered falling prices and the number of homes on the market is remaining close to an all-time high.

The research indicates that sellers are refusing to adjust to these new market conditions.

Rightmove explained that what it called "bullish pricing" is typical of the autumn property market and vendors often struggle to react to both new stock and market changes.

The property portal also indicated that many sellers are likely to be disappointed as evidence shows that high prices can damage chances of selling the property.

Miles Shipside, director of Rightmove, said: "It is a sign that many sellers are not experiencing high levels of financial stress, but can't afford to accept a lower price if they are to make their sums stack up for the next move."

Drop in number of high end homes on market

THE value of the UK's most expensive properties has fallen by 1.5 per cent over the past year, figures from Primelocation.com have revealed, despite a slight decrease in the availability of stock.

Top value homes in Kent did not fare as badly as those in other parts of the UK, according to market analysts.

London saw the biggest monthly falls in value for the highest-end stock, dropping by 2.4 per cent between August and September 2010, while prime properties in Wales fell by 5.8 per cent over the year.

Primelocation.com believes the two main reasons for falling values are fewer wealthy individuals looking to buy property from abroad, as well as higher taxes prompting more of the UK's rich to emigrate.

SALES of properties worth £1 million and over have risen by 118 per cent in the past year, according to new figures from Halifax.

Although sales over £1m represent a tiny proportion of the UK property market as a whole, shares of all sales have risen from 0.5 per cent in the first six months of 2009, to 0.9 per cent in the same period of 2010.

A spokesman said: "The increase reflects the weakness in sterling and the relatively strong housing market in the south east."

AIMING HIGH: Eric Pickles (pictured below), the communities and local government secretary, has pledged to upgrade thousands of affordable homes for low-income families

150,000 new homes as part of reforms to social housing

THE Government has cut the social housing budget by more than 50 per cent, from £8.4 billion over the previous three-year period to £4.4 billion.

However, it says that it will invest £4.5bn in 150,000 new affordable homes over the spending review period.

It will also carry out a major reform of social housing in this country, said Chancellor George Osborne while outlining changes made in the 2010 Comprehensive Spending Review.

Included in this reform will be a shift in responsibility to local councils and a scheme which allows social landlords to charge tenants a weekly rent between social and market rates.

In addition, more than £2bn has been allocated to the Decent Homes programme, which improves housing for vulnerable people.

■ BY NICK AMES

Other changes include a new cap on Local Housing Allowance to single claimants under 35 who are living in the private rented sector.

They will now be restricted to the rate for a single room in a shared house rather than in a one-bedroom property.

Eric Pickles, communities and local government secretary, said: "We have that seen that the old system of house building simply did not work."

"We are making the money available and delivering the reform to build and upgrade thousands of affordable homes for people on lower incomes over the next four years."

These cuts are likely to attract controversy due to plans to subsidise budget cuts by forcing those on housing benefit to pay a higher rent.

TERMS AND CONDITIONSKOS MEDIA (PUBLISHING) LTD
TERMS AND CONDITIONS

- Advertisements will be accepted only on the express condition that the advertiser warrants that the advertisement does not in any way contravene any existing legislation and in particular the Trade and Description Act 1968 and the Consumer Credit Act 1974.
- It is the responsibility of all advertisers to ensure that all advertising meets all forms of government legislation and KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd (the "media owner") takes no responsibility for liability in errors and omissions to the content of our media.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- All rates within the annual advertising agreement will be rate protected for 12 months from the first date of publication under the signed agreement.
- Any unsuitable material posted on any website belonging to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd by the advertiser or any associated third party will be removed or refused. All passwords and security supplied to the advertiser by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd in relation to the use of the posting of material via the media owner's online administration tool will be the responsibility of the advertiser. The advertiser indemnifies KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd against any damages as a result of misuse of these privileges by either the advertiser or any third party given password privileges by the advertiser.
- KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd reserves the right to change passwords intermittently to ensure the overall and ongoing security of its websites within the public domain.
- Copyright and licenses for voice-over/music/photography or film for advertising promotions or otherwise within the various forms of media in print, online and moving film owned by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must have been sought, verified or paid for by the advertiser where applicable. Approval or permissions must have been given by any potential beneficial owner voice-over or music. The advertiser must be able to verify any statements or claims (promotional or otherwise) in relation to their products/services promoted within any of the media offerings belonging to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd.
- Where shrinkage of an advertisement occurs for whatever reason, the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre where it relates to the media owner's printed publications. This will NOT apply to full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd reserves the right to omit or refuse any advertisement/commercial/web content without notice or explanation. In these terms the word "advertiser" shall be construed to include any person or organisation placing an advertisement on behalf of another advertiser.
- A guarantee of insertion cannot be given and the media owners shall not be liable for any loss or damage caused by any error inaccuracy within your marketing content. In no case shall the total liability of the media owner for any error or omission exceed the price charged by the media owners for that advertising.
- No liability is accepted for any loss or damage alleged to have arisen through delay in forwarding replies to Box numbers, however caused, nor for the loss or damage to any artwork supplied.
- Claims for any error or inaccuracy in your media messages with KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must be made in writing to the accounts department within 10 days of publishing.
- KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd accepts no responsibility for any errors or omissions made on their websites by the advertiser.
- KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd has the right to cancel the advertiser's annual membership without notice should the advertiser deliberately publish out of date material or content on any of the media owner's online digital platforms. KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd will seek to recover, in full, all outstanding invoices in relation to the signed annual membership as a result of the advertiser's negligence in this regard and reserves the right to claim damages for any potential wasteful expenditure by the advertiser.
- Advertisers are requested to check their advertisements after the first insertion. The media owner will not be responsible for any errors on subsequent insertions, which have not been advised to them in writing.
- A minimum of one month's notice must be given in writing for any cancellation of the signed annual advertiser's agreement. Upon cancellation, all discounts from KOS Media's standard effective media advertising rate card (July 2008-June 2009) will be recalculated and adjusted accordingly in line with KOS Media's standard media rate card (effective July 2008-June 2009) and will reflect the revised length of commitment denoted by the advertiser's written cancellation. Any surcharges, refunds or costs in relation to the production of the advertiser's TV commercial for the commitment set out within the advertiser's agreement will be met in full by the advertiser as per KOS Media's standard media advertising rate card (July 2008-June 2009). Discounts will be reapplied and any refunds or surcharges will be paid by either party within 30 days of the advertiser's written cancellation. Any other advertising placed must give a minimum of seven days' written notice and any discounts given for series bookings will be forfeited by the advertiser upon cancellation.
- Seasonal contracts, Your Professional classified advertisements or any uplift advertising within the annual contract with the advertiser will be invoiced in full - at rate card - on receipt of any written cancellation of this contract within the 12-months.
- All uplift advertisements must be booked in at least three months in advance of publication and will be subject to availability. All dates booked will be on a first-come, first-served basis.
- The advertiser must agree to the date and time of filming of any online TV advertising commercial supplied by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd within the advertiser's agreement. (Platinum, Gold, Silver standard or Bronze). Should, for any reason, the advertiser not be available at the agreed time without giving sufficient notice (at least 48 hours), KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd reserves the right to charge for any further TV production at its standard published hourly rate should the advertiser still wish to use KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd's production services to complete its TV commercial or photographic imagery included in the advertiser's agreement. The advertiser will approve and accept that there are only two choices of voice-over and music offered by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd. Should an advertiser wish to use other voice-over or non-copyright free music it is the responsibility of the advertiser to pay the PRS rights should they be required to do so. Any changes to or failure to approve the TV production by the deadlines agreed between both parties will result in KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd being given permission by the advertiser to replace the TV commercial with pictures or stills from a choice of photography supplied by the media owner until the advertiser can supply a TV commercial produced at their own cost and risk outside of this agreement. The advertiser also accepts and agrees that this action would not reduce the value or cost of their membership. Any cost of changes required to the TV commercial throughout the advertiser's agreement will be borne by the advertiser outside of this agreement.
- Each advertiser accepts that their ranking and position within KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd's search engine will be equal to those within their category (Platinum, Gold, Silver, Bronze, etc) other than they will be ranked based on the search engine criteria of optimisation within their level (Platinum, Gold, Silver or Bronze).
- Any delivery claims made by the advertiser or discount vouchers published within the print or online media of KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd and any action as a result of the public or otherwise is the sole responsibility of the advertiser. Any claims resulting from this via KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must be met by the advertiser.
- a. All credit accounts due for payment shall be notified to the Advertiser by the 30th day following the date of the invoice, time be of the essence. All sums due to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd or RBS Factoring shall be paid in full, and the Advertiser shall have no right of set off in any circumstances.
b. In the event that payment is not received by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd or RBS Factoring by the due date, the media owner shall be entitled to suspend all further advertising until payment is received and/or repudiate the contract and make any surcharges for breaking the contract.
c. In the event that payment is not received by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd by the due date, the media owner reserves the right to charge interest on all overdue balances calculated on a daily basis at the rate of two per cent above the minimum lending rate of National Westminster Bank Plc from time to time in force.
d. Notwithstanding anything in these terms and conditions or implied to the contrary, in the event of the Advertiser ceasing to use the services of KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd (for whatever reason), the whole amount of monies due from the Advertiser to the date of cessation shall fall due for immediate payment.
e. The Advertiser will be liable for all costs incurred by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd in the recovery of debts not paid by the due date.
f. Payment may be made by cheque, credit transfer, direct debit, cash and any major credit card.
- Any discount which KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd may have agreed with the Advertiser shall be forfeited in the event of failure by the Advertiser to complete the contract or to meet the above credit terms.
- Advertising Agency commission will be allowed to those advertisers recognised by the Newspaper Society, but shall not exceed ten per cent and will be subject to the terms of that recognition. This commission will not be allowed if the Advertising Agency fails to meet the terms.
- All private advertisements and certain categories as laid down by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must be prepaid.
- The Advertiser agrees to indemnify KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd in respect of all costs, damages or other charges falling upon the media owner or any of its companies within the KOS Media Group as the result of legal action or threatened legal action or threatened legal arising from the publication of any advertisement or advertising promotion.
- An order for an advertisement shall amount to acceptance of these terms and conditions, and any condition placed on an order by an Advertiser shall be null and void in so far as it conflicts with them.
- Copyright in advertisements produced wholly or partially by the media owners belong to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the media owner's written consent.

All terms and conditions stated above are in place to protect the advertiser, the media owner and the communities they serve within the public domain as well as the beneficial rights of individuals and organisations. KOS Media will endeavour to always act reasonably in applying its terms and conditions.

The future of local media

Would you like to be a part of an exciting and growing team developing our portfolio across Kent's towns and districts?

Have you got innovative ideas?

Media Sales Executives (Field Based)

We have an opportunity for highly motivated people to create and sell multi-media solutions in our market-leading portfolio of newspapers and magazines. We're not looking for people to just take orders; we're looking for people who can provide first class solutions for our customers. We believe good customer service is at the heart of our success and we want to recruit people who can develop excellent business relationships and present effective and innovative ideas that will provide real value and response for our customers.

Senior B2B Sales Professionals

To play a key role in developing new business and maintaining existing relationships. The ideal candidate should be comfortable with all stages of account management and should be proficient at sourcing leads, creating initial contact, delivering presentations, writing proposals, negotiating and closing. The person we are seeking will be an energetic and enthusiastic individual with good interpersonal skills, strong relationship-building capability and have excellent verbal and written communication ability. They will need to demonstrate a proven sales track record, preferably from within B2B media, will have a good understanding of the benefits of printed, online and live media and ideally have knowledge of the Kent marketplace.

Telephone Sales Executive

Are you confident, competitive, determined and hard working? Do you enjoy a challenge and have a 'can do' attitude?

We are looking to recruit highly driven, experienced telesales professionals able to work under pressure to deadline and target, in our fast-paced advertising department.

Are you Sport mad?

Commercial Sales Manager (Sports Products)

Playing the key role in selling advertising and sponsorship across our new sports products is something that an all-round sports enthusiast would revel in. Candidates will possess a proven track record in media sales, combining excellent communication and presentation skills, a great business acumen, tenacity, and the ability to build positive business relationships.

Ultimately, we need an articulate and assured sales person with a structured sales technique, a positive manner and passion for all things sport.

Events and Exhibitions Executive

You will play the key role in selling and coordinating our groups events, exhibitions and sponsorship across our market-leading portfolio of newspapers, magazines, show guides, websites and mobile products.

Reporters

We are looking for NCTJ-trained reporters to join our busy newsroom. Candidates must be genuine all-rounders who are able to write across the various sections of our newspapers and websites, from news to features and leisure.

You will be a self-starter bursting with ideas who is able to adapt their writing style to meet the needs of a variety of publications.

Full-time Creative Personal Assistant

Reporting to the managing director and editorial director

The successful applicant will need to demonstrate they have the ability to not only produce excellent reports and run senior directors' diaries, but also have writing skills that would not be out of place in our newsroom. You will be producing monthly management reports and minutes of board meetings as well as preparing copy for marketing, and on occasions supplying well written PR for our websites, newspapers and magazines as well as the wider world of media. This position also demands absolute discretion as the business develops in the coming years.

The successful applicant must also have the ability to work to tight deadlines and be flexible when work demands dictate.

Some knowledge of media, marketing or PR would be advantageous.

We offer an excellent basic salary plus generous bonus scheme, ongoing training and career development, five weeks' annual leave, contributory pension and life assurance scheme (after qualifying period) and all the benefits of working for a large media organisation.

About us

KOS Media publishes the UK award-winning Kent on Sunday newspaper and a series of free weekly newspapers, magazines and associated websites and mobile products.

The company produces kentnews.co.uk and yourkentTV, an internet-based TV service providing regional and local news, business and sport, plus websites for jobs, property and motors.

KOS Media's newspapers have won more than 10 national awards, including UK Regional Newspaper of the Year, and UK Free Weekly Newspaper of the Year six times.

In June, 2010, media group Archant purchased KOS Media.

Archant is the UK's largest independently owned regional media business

It is a community media company active in the fields of regional newspaper and magazine publishing, contract printing and internet communications. All its titles serve clearly defined communities, based around locations or interest groups.

Archant can trace its roots back more than 160 years and today remains one of the country's largest independent media businesses. As a private company it employs 1,850 people right across England. It has an annual turnover of £142 million.

The newspaper division, Archant Regional, produces four daily regional newspapers and around 60 weekly titles with a combined circulation of 2.25 million copies every week. It is a UK top six regional newspaper publisher. It also publishes many of the group's 180 websites and a number of its magazines.

Archant also owns three magazine companies, which between them produce around 80 magazines.

PLEASSED: Steve Butler took charge against Cray Wanderers

Butler pleased with young Stones as late double nets United Trophy spot

MAIDSTONE United have been drawn away to Ryman North side Harlow Town in the FA Trophy third qualifying round.

The Stones looked to be heading out of the competition against Cray Wanderers on Saturday, before two late goals from Danny Hockton and Tommy Whitnell wrestled the victory away from the hosts.

Maidstone's reward for their dramatic 2-1 comeback at Hayes Lane is a trip to Essex to take on Harlow, who are second in Ryman North, with eight wins from ten league games.

FOOTBALL

The tie will be played on November 20.

New assistant manager Steve Butler took sole charge of the side at the weekend as manager Andy Ford was away on a pre-booked holiday.

Butler, who enjoyed two spells as a player at Maidstone, was delighted with the victory and described the result as a real team effort.

He said: "To be honest we could have been two or three down in the first-half, but I felt we were playing well in the second-half.

"Danny's goal came as a relief and then to win the game was a great result.

"I wasn't sure how the players felt about the FA Trophy, but we spoke about it before the game and we agreed there is something special about these cup competitions, although at this stage we are playing teams who are basically in our league.

"I gave the younger players a lot of credit after the game, but the senior players really stood tall as well."

BRANDS HATCH WIN: Graham Powell

Home victory for trucker Powell

NEWLY crowned British Truck Racing Class B champion Graham Powell rounded off a successful campaign with a victory at Brands Hatch.

The Aylesford racer, who already clinched the Class B title at the penultimate meeting at Donington Park in September, was able to enjoy his home round of the series at the weekend.

Powell's final round of the season started well by securing second spot on the Class B grid and eighth overall in qualifying on Saturday. Driving his ERF, the experienced driver made a good start to the race and immediately set his sights on Class B race leader Cees Zandbergen.

Despite pushing the Dutchman, he was unable to find a way past his rival and took the chequered flag in second. However, Zandbergen was handed two five-second penalties for not obeying the track limits, which promoted Powell to the top step of the podium.

Powell ended the meeting with a sixth place finish in the Class A race and finished ninth in the grand final.

SECOND-HALF COMEBACK: Danny Hockton (left) scored with a header in the 90th-minute, while Adrian Stone and Tommy Whitnell celebrate the latter's injury-time winner (right)

Hockton and Whitnell score late on to break Cray hearts

TWO late goals from strikers Danny Hockton and Tommy Whitnell helped Maidstone United snatch victory from the jaws of defeat and earn a place in the next round of the FA Trophy.

Few would have predicted the result for the Stones as they were under pressure for large periods of the game and a goal down after 53 minutes. However, a strong second-half performance and last gasp headers from Hockton and Whitnell in the last few minutes of the game stunned Cray Wanderers and earned Andy Ford's side their second win in as many weeks.

The visitors found themselves under pressure from as early as the eighth minute, when former United player Chris Saunders found Richard Whyte, but goalkeeper Andy Walker was equal to the effort.

The hosts continued to push forward and Walker had to be alert to save chances from Saunders, Laurent Hamici and Aaron Day. Wanderers should have opened the scoring on 23 minutes, when Whyte found space inside the area, but he could only fire his shot wide of the post.

It took the Stones 28 minutes to register their first effort on goal when Sean Johnson's erratic shot from Alex Flisher's pass failed to trouble goalkeeper Dave King.

The game swung in the Stones' favour five minutes from time when Luke Coleman received a red card for a nasty challenge.

With the extra man advantage, Ford's side pushed forward and in the final minute Hockton headed home a Tom Mills cross for a dramatic equaliser.

It wasn't all over there though, as deep into injury time, United completed an impressive turn around when a diving header from Whitnell, from a Flisher cross, nestled into the net, sparking celebrations from the travelling contingent.

The win continued Ford's fine start to his managerial reign at Maidstone, with United now having gone four games unbeaten.

Graves tries do the trick as Maidstone bounce back

RUGBY

■ BY YOURMAIDSTONE REPORTER

Maidstone 43 Warlingham 24

A HAT-TRICK of tries from Neil Graves helped Maidstone end their run of three defeats on the bounce with a bonus point victory at The Mote.

Andy Foley's side have struggled for form and results in recent weeks, but despite an early scare, they responded with a clinical attacking display to move up the London 2 South East table on Saturday evening.

Warlingham came out of the blocks quickly and opened the scoring when their centre burst through a tackle to run in the first try of the game.

Conceding the try sparked Maidstone into life and a loose pass from the Surrey side was grasped by Graves and he scored under the posts. Ben Smith added the conversion.

Parity was short-lived as the visitors regained the lead by executing a catch and drive from a line-out deep in the hosts' 22.

However, the game turned in Maidstone's favour when Warlingham were reduced to 14 men as one of their second row was sent to the sin bin. Armed with the numerical advantage, the home side made the most of the opportunity as Graves finished off a move started by Smith. Graves completed his hat-trick

IMPROVING: Maidstone put in an attacking display against Warlingham at the weekend to claim a resounding win moments later as he and Smith combined again to split the opponents' defence.

Mark Ryan scored a fourth try on the stroke of half-time to ensure his side entered the break with the score 26-10.

Foley's side started the second-half keen to extend their lead and it didn't take long for them to do so. Smith kicked a penalty, which should have wrapped up the game, but Warlingham refused to sit back.

The visitors exploited a weakness in the Maidstone defence and scored from another catch and drive, which cut the deficit to 12 points.

The home side ensured there would be no comeback, when Smith and Gareth Hill scored tries to put the game beyond doubt, although there was still time for Warlingham to score a consolation try with five minutes of the game remaining.

The victory moves Maidstone into seventh spot and they will aim to build on the result against Old Reigatians in the Intermediate Cup on Saturday.

HOME VICTORY: Aylesford Bulls have an eye on top spot in London 2 South East after a heavy win on Saturday

In-form Bulls move second

RUGBY

Aylesford Bulls 48 Purley John Fisher 6

AYLESFORD Bulls moved to second in London 2 South East after running in eight tries in the thrashing of Purley John Fisher at the Jack Williams Ground.

Although the scoreline suggests Bulls were in control from the start, it was the Surrey side that started strongly and they dominated the early exchanges.

Glynn Mitchell's side soon settled into the game and they opened the scoring with five minutes on the clock. Dan Harvey's kick downfield led to a penalty and from a line-out, Ed Finlay crashed over the try line. Harvey missed the conversion.

The visitors went on the attack from the restart and cut the deficit to two points with a well-taken penalty.

A misplaced pass from the visitors led to Bulls' second try of the afternoon as Kiwi winger Andrew Martyn intercepted the ball and he offloaded to Marcus O'Neill who scored and Harvey made no mistake with the conversion.

Aylesford conceded another penalty, but from then on it was one-way traffic on the scoring front. A brace of tries from winger Manoa Nabakeke and a score from Tim Sullivan gave the hosts a 29-6 lead at the break.

The home side made changes during the interval in a bid to rest players for Saturday's Intermediate Cup game against Guildford. Despite a change in personnel, the Bulls continued to push forward and Luke Cherrington scored the sixth try of the afternoon.

Mitchell's side wrapped up their fifth consecutive victory when Sullivan completed his hat-trick.

HIGHLY-RATED: Courtney Tulloch of Pegasus

Teen duo in tough championship test

TWO young athletes from Pegasus Gymnastics Club will pit themselves against the nation's best in the British Championships this week.

Highly-rated Courtney Tulloch and James Hall, who compete at the Bearsted-based club, will make the trip to Leicester's New College for the event, which begins on Friday.

The pair, who have enjoyed an impressive season to date which has seen them become team mates in Great Britain's top junior squad, will take part in the under-16 competition.

They face a tough battle for honours in Leicester with the duo only just promoted to the under-16 section, but Pegasus director Fef Griffin is confident her athletes will shine.

She said: "In terms of national rankings, the British Championships is always a major event. They've both got a good chance of finishing in the top quarter and on a fantastically good day, Courtney has an outside chance of making the masters final on rings."

HOCKEY

Ladies stay leaders

Sudbury 0 Maidstone 4

MAIDSTONE'S relentless run at the top of the East Women's Hockey League continued after racking up a seventh consecutive win.

Rachel Thompson's side have been the class of the division so far, boasting a 100 per cent record, which they maintained at lowly Sudbury on Saturday.

Goals from Lizzie Daniels, Jody Goodwin, Hannah Durston and Kathryn Waldrom were enough to see off the home side and the victory means Thompson's side maintain their three-point lead at the top of the league.

On Saturday their title credentials will be severely tested when they host second-placed Holcombe, who have lost just one of their seven league games this season.

The men's 1st XI were unable to build on their first point achieved last week as they were thrashed 5-2 by Banbury. The defeat leaves them at the wrong end of the South Hockey League Premier Division One table.
